The Prohibition Question in the Legislature.

Other Pending Measures--Petitions--Personal Paragraphs--General News--Gossip.

From Our Special Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 27.—The train East to-night bears to Ste. Genevieve county the remains of Lafayette G. Patterson, the member who died this afternoon. His condition had been critical for a week, and his death was hourly expected. Measles and pneumonia combined killed Mr. Patterson. The Senate has sustained a loss in the death of Senator Truax, and now a desk draped in mourning will be found in both houses. The body is in charge of Senator Oliver and Representatives Carter of St. Francois, Faley, Cockerill and Tucker. To-morrow resolutions will be presented by Messrs. Bashaw, Carleton, McGinness, O'Fallon and Adkins.

The House held a caucus this evening and decided to give the Prohibition question the go-by. O'Fallon's resolution declared that it was not a political measure and beyond the province of a purely political caucus. The action does not, however, prevent the Committee on Constitutional Amendments from to-morrow reporting adversely upon the Prohibition amendment. J. Ed. Jones, chairman, will make a few remarks in connection with the report, a feature of which is the returns as tabulated from the petitions submitted, showing that 8,231 voters only have petitioned for submission of the question, while 46,050 names are signed to the protests against the passage of prohibitory laws. The debate will occur on a motion to indefinitely postpone consideration of the report.

Senator Edwards, Supreme Court amendment introduced to-day is a copy of that introduced by Mr. Kent in the House. It is the most popular proposition bearing upon this subject yet presented.

NOTES.

W. H. Swift is here for a number of purposes.

Maj. Harrigan, Alex. Garesche and all that party went home to-day.

The Supreme Court has adjourned until Monday. The April docket will be ready for distribution next week. The docket contains 150 cases.

John H. Maxon expresses much disappointment over the failure of the Senate Committee on Corporations to report favorably upon the bill permitting corporations to take stock in each other.

The remarkable bill of Matt Ryan and Tom Morris, making bulldozing of a member by a lobbyist a misdemeanor, was reported adversely upon by the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence to-night.

Kent, chairman of the St. Louis delegation, received to-night a telegraphic protest against the passage of the elective bill from the business men's meeting held in St. Louis, with Web. M. Samuels presiding.

The bill creating an Inebriates' Home at Excelsior Springs, Clay county, is understood to be backed by the farmers' caucus, and although it came in quite late, it stands a fair chance of passage. The dramshopkeepers are to pay $10 per annum each to maintain an institution for which they furnish the inmates.

The joint sub-Penitentiary Committee have agreed to build a branch penitentiary in the State somewhere, the Legislature to designate the site by enactment. The House Committee will report to-morrow favorably upon Krauthoff's bill making arson within the Penitentiary a capital offense. Newspapers are rigidly excluded from the Penitentiary since the revolt.

Railway Row Over Lumber Rates.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 28.—A small tempest has been caused in the Chicago and St. Louis pool by a sharp scheme whereby the Burlington invaded the territory of the Illinois Central and laid down lumber at rates that cut those made by the latter road. For some time the local rate on lumber to East St. Louis has been eight cents to connections and eleven cents to East St. Louis proper. The Illinois Central is in the habit of charging a local rate considerably above eleven cents to certain points on the Vandalia road east of East St. Louis. The Burlington, however, is alleged to have shipped lumber to those points via East St. Louis, cutting the local rate by the Illinois Central. This it was able to do by taking advantage of this eight-cent rate allowed on lumber consigned over connecting lines. Considerable difficulty has been encountered in wrestling with the lumber question, and it is not unlikely as soon as the necessary data can be secured that a separate pool on lumber between Chicago and St. Louis will be formed.

Arthur Advanced the Money.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Pastor J. M. Galligan, of the Catholic Church of the Holy Name of Jesus, has bought for $32,000 a plot of five lots at the northeast corner of Tenth avenue and Ninety-sixth street. President Arthur, as general guardian of Chester Allan Arthur and Ellen Herndon Arthur, advanced $18,000 of the purchase money, taking a three-years' mortgage upon the property as security. The rest of the money was secured by mortgaging the church at Ninety-seventh street and Tenth avenue.

A Pioneer's Death.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

EAST SAGINAW, MICH., February 28.—Alex. Ferguson, a pioneer of the Saginaw Valley, died to-day from inflammation of the liver, aged 54 years. Mr. Ferguson came here in 1840 and was a member of the first City Council. He has been three times elected as County Treasurer by the Republicans. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and was one of the officers of the Grand Lodge of the State of Michigan.

A Novel Entertainment.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 28.—The Chinese Sunday-school of the Wabash Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church gave an entertainment in the church parlor last night. There were about fifty of the Celestial pupils present and all gotten up in a manner becoming the occasion. Some were resplendent in American costume.

Suffocated by Gas.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

MADISON, WIS., Feb. 28.—A distressing accident occurred here last night. A man and wife and three children named Haley, living in the third ward were suffocated by gas and the doctors say none of them can recover.

Cabinet Officers' Homes.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 28.—The families of many of the members are making active preparations for leaving for home as soon as the session ends. Indeed some of them, unable to delay until the gavel falls, have already left to pave the way for the husband and father after the session ends. There is little doing in society here now, and as Washington is not agreeably attractive in this sort of weather they are willing to accept almost anything for a change.

THEIR HOMES.

Last evening your correspondent had occasion to visit two or three cabinet officers and an ex-cabinet officer at their homes, and although cabinet officials are human and live pretty much like other folks it occurred to him that a word or two about their homes and home life would not be uninteresting outside Washington.

SECRETARY FRELINGHUYSEN

occupies a rather modest brick-house on I street, near Seventeenth street, in the fashionable quarter of the city, and not more than five minutes' walk from the Department of State. There are plenty of houses all about it much handsomer, on either side and also on the opposite side of the street. If you were to look for the residence of the Secretary of State, the first officer of the Cabinet, whose wife is always accorded the place of honor at the White House, save at dinners to the Supreme Court, and at whose home the President and foreign ambassadors are seen more often than at any residence in Washington, you would never take this for the place. You could find a hundred—yes, hundreds of more handsome residences within a very short distance of this spot, and equally accessible, and even in more fashionable locations. Within it is tastefully and richly furnished, but without display. There are parlors at the left and right as you enter, and above is a large room which the Secretary occupies as a sort of office. There is a large square desk in the center of the room, some rare engravings on the wall, a luxurious carpet, hangings and mantel ornaments, etc., etc. The rooms below are not large. The hall is broad and leads direct to the dining-room, while the stairway is located between one of the parlors and the dining-room, and not in the principal hall itself. The parlors are richly furnished, and the rare paintings and engravings on the wall and rich carpets and furniture, betoken excellent taste on the part of the Secretary and his family.

SECRETARY CHANDLER

lives in a more fashionable spot and in a more modern and fashionable house. He is a worker, and his desk in his library is strewn with papers, and shows that his wonderful success in political life has been earned by hard work and ceaseless activity. The parlors are very handsome, rather showy, in fact, yet in excellent taste. In general arrangement as to location of rooms, halls and stairway, she house is something similar to that occupied by Senator Frelinghuysen.

SECRETARY LINCOLN

lives on Massachusetts avenue near Fourteenth street, just a few squares away from the spot where his martyred father fell a victim to the assassin's bullet. The house is large, but not especially showy. The parlors are broad and spacious. At the front a bay window, at the opposite end a curtained doorway leading into a cosy back parlor with a fireplace. On the walls are a number of engravings and portraits, among them an excellent picture of Garfield, but I could see none of Lincoln. Perhaps that of his loved father is too sacred to him for a place in so public a spot as this must be.

THE HOME OF EX-SECRETARY BLAINE,

however, is the handsomest of them all. The hall is broad and long, and the walls burdened with fine engravings. Along the sides are handsomely carved chairs of ebony and mahogany, which would do credit to any old baronial castle of the most approved pattern and standing. On the walls are pictures of Washington, Lincoln, Garfield, Grant, but not of Arthur so far as could be observed. At the end of the hall is a broad fire-place with brass andirons, the mantel surmounted by costly vases. The ceiling and finish of the hall is in natural woods, very handsome. The large parlors at the right and left of the hall are handsomely furnished, luxurious carpets and hangings, elegant and costly furniture. Surely if Mr. Blaine has not succeeded in reaching the White House he has created for himself a home which far surpasses it in appointments and elegance.

Sessinghaus-Frost.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 28.—It is understood that none of the contested election cases are likely to be called up in the House owing to the press of other matters. Frost, in an interview this morning, says: "I think from all I can learn no action will be taken on my case. Should this be the case it will deprive Sessinghaus not only of his title as Congressman but of his $10,000 salary, which probably will pay a small portion of his expenses of the contest. Frost says his side of the fight has cost him $10,000, and it is probable the other side has cost much more.

Thomas Talks.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, February 28.—Thomas, of Illinois, made a strong speech in the House this morning in support of the portion of the river and harbor bill making appropriations for the Mississippi. He supported the Mississippi River Commission and gave the Burrows Special Committee some very hard rubs. He was listened to with great interest.

Declined Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 28.—Representative Randall has declined service on the Tariff Conference Committee, as have also Morrison and Tucker, who were afterwards appointed. The Speaker then took the matter under further consideration.

Will Be Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 28.—The name of Milton Garrignes, nominated as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Eleventh District of Indiana, will be withdrawn by the President, and Thomas Fitzgerald will be nominated in his stead.

FORTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 28.—Senator Edmunds, from the Committee on Judiciary, reported adversely the House bill to provide for the restoration to citizenship of such citizens of the United States as have become naturalized citizens of Great Britain.

Senator Tabor offered a joint resolution providing for participation by the Government in the National Mining and Industrial Exposition to be held at Denver.

A message was received announcing the names of the House conferees on the internal revenue and tariff bill.

At Senator Garland's request the message was read.

Senator Garland asked to have read from the Congressional Record the resolution of the House instructing its conferees "to consider fully the constitutional objections to the internal revenue bill as amended by the Senate and to bring the same, together with the opinion of the House in regard thereto, before the committee of conference, etc.," and moved to reconsider the motion by which the Senate had agreed to the conference.

House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 27.—Immediately after the reading of the journal Mr. Randall rose and said: "Mr. Speaker, if I had followed my impulses of the moment of the announcement of the conferees on the part of the House, on the differences between the two houses in reference to the tax and tariff legislation, I would have then and there declined the service, but I preferred to act after reflection and deliberation and thus avoid the semblance of what might be thought hasty action. Seldom, if ever, during my service in this House, have I avoided duty or responsibility, but in this instance I feel I can better serve the interests of my State by the relinquishment of the labor assigned to me. I am more reconciled to this course because of the fact that I leave behind me on the committee of conference a member representing my own State and in fact my own city, one who has devoted a lifetime to the subject in controversy. Whatever report may come as the result of this action of the House, when it is presented I shall be more at liberty to pursue such course on its consideration as will enable me to best promote the great industrial interests of the country as to rates and within proper limitations. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask to be released from the service you were kind enough to assign me to."

Mr. Anderson sarcastically suggested that Mr. Russell Errett be appointed to fill the vacancy.

The Speaker: "The gentleman will be relieved and the chair appoints Mr. Morrison, of Illinois.

"I respectfully decline to serve," said Mr. Morrison, rising.

The Speaker: "The chair will appoint to fill the vacancy occasioned by the declination the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. Tucker."

"As third appointee," said Mr. Tucker, "I decline to serve."

The Speaker: "The chair will take the matter under consideration."

The House then went into committee of the whole on the state of the Union, and after a brief contest with regard to respective claims for precedence of the deficiency and river and harbor bills. Consideration of the latter measure was resumed.

WASHINGTON, February 28.—Before it was finally taken up, Mr. Springer made a point of order that the tariff bill was first in order. The friends of that measure, it seemed, had left it in the committee to die, but he thought its consideration should be proceeded with. The chair, however, ruled otherwise, and the river and harbor bill was taken up. Mr. McLean spoke in support of the bill.

MRS. LANGTRY.

Will Locate Permanently in New York—Her Western Trip.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Mrs. Langtry arrived in this city Monday night from Indianapolis, and went at once to the Albermarle Hotel. She has no engagements to play anywhere this week until Saturday night, when she will perform in Davenport, Iowa. Her last performance was given in Indianapolis Saturday night. Aside from a desire to rest comfortably for a few days in the metropolis, Mrs. Langtry has visited New York on a business errand of some interest. She has become so fond of America and American people that it is her intention to become a permanent resident of this city. She is therefore negotiating for a house on Fifth avenue. The happy real estate agent with whom negotiations are in progress is not named, because Mrs. Langtry fears that if he knew the house was for her he might make the price a fancy figure. She will play another engagement in this city later in the season. Her present company is at present in Rock Island, where she will rejoin it on her way to Davenport. She will leave this city on Friday morning on the Chicago limited express, and arrangements have been made, in case anything should prevent her reaching Chicago in time to catch the westward train on the Rock Island road, to send the lady through on a special engine. It is stated that Mrs. Langtry has a secret yearning for a wild ride on a locomotive. She was looking well, and did not appear to be at all worried by her travels. She expressed herself as much pleased with the West.

TAKING A REST.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL., February 28.—Mrs. Langtry's manager has engaged rooms for her at the Hooper House, where she is expected to rest during her brief vacation from professional duties. She left Peoria last Saturday night after a performance of "An Unequal Match" for New York. Mr. Gebhardt accompanied her, and he is expected to visit this city during her sojourn here. She is due Friday morning, and after a performance that night will spend several days resting and recovering from the effects of her prolonged engagement through the country.

Tearing Up a Track.

CHICAGO, February 28.—A riotous demonstration more serious than that reported in the dispatches as having occurred a few months ago was made on the Chicago and Cranston Railroad. Last night about midnight a band of 300 men, well organized, marched up Southport avenue to Fullerton avenue. They were equipped with crowbars, jimmies, pickaxes, and, under the direction of chosen leaders, proceeded to tear up the track. Five hundred feet of rails were torn up and twisted out of shape. The ties and roadbed were completely destroyed for that distance. The police had expected a riot, but the mob, by strategem, had deceived the officers as to the time and place. When the latter arrived the rioters formed in line, marched some distance in an orderly manner and dispersed. No arrests were made.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, February 28.—South Atlantic States, fair and slightly warmer weather, southwest winds, lower barometer. Gulf States, slightly warmer fair weather, variable winds, mostly from east to south, lower barometer. Tennessee and Onio Valley, warmer, fair weather, south to west winds, generally lower barometer. Lake Region, slightly warmer, partly cloudy, occasional snow in east and north portions, winds shifting to west and south, lower barometer. Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys, fair weather, winds mostly from sothwest to southeast, slight rise in temperature, stationary or lower barometer. Lower Mississippi and Lower Arkansas rivers will rise slowly.

Stanley Matthews' Brother Arrested.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 28.—At the request of the First National Bank of Youngstown, Ohio, Judge Rogers has issued a capias for the arrest of Frank H. Matthews, president of the corporation known as Brown, Bonnell & Co., who obtained advances on the representation that no mortgage existed on the property. The accused is a brother of Justice Stanley Matthews.

France.

PARIS, February 28.—It is stated that Gladstone, in an interview with President Grevy and Challemel Lacour, Minister of Foreign Affairs, appeared to be desirous to bring about the end of the present tension between France and England. It is believed that fresh negotiations relative to Egypt are impending that will place France in a more favorable position than she now occupies.

ANGRY RADICALS.

PARIS, February 28.—The Radicals are angry at the arrest of Frank Byrne at the instance of the British Government. The Intransigeant accuses the Fovernment of basely cringing in order to meet English exigencies. An active investigation is being made into the circumstances of the arrest. It is expected other arrests of persons supposed to be connected with the troubles in Ireland will be made.

England.

LONDON, February 28.—Childers, Chancellor, discussing in the House of Commons the distress in Ireland, said the Government would not shrink from taking strong measures if they were likely to have a permanent effect. He pointed out that wages were high and that the distress only affected the overcrowded districts. He hoped the Irish members would do what they could to restore confidence in Ireland, so that the promoters of public works would be able to obtain loans from private sources instead of from the Government.

CLAMORING FOR BREAD.

LOUGHREA, February 28.—Distress among the people here is alarming. Crowds are besieging the houses of the priests, clamoring for food. The Town Commissioners have been hurriedly convened to take measures towards relieving the wants of the people.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, February 28.—The Freeman's Journal says it is authorized to state that no warrant has been issued for the arrest of Brennan.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Dead-Lock in the House Broken—Proceedings in the Senate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., February 28.—In the Senate this morning leave was granted for the introduction of new bills. The special order was postponed for the first reading of bills; also for reports from the Committee on Judiciary. The special order for this morning was the consideration of Mr. Archer's Senate joint resolution concerning the veto power of the Governor, which was adopted by a two-thirds vote. The special order for 11 o'clock was Mr. Whitney's provision for taxing express companies doing business on railroads. The discussion was protracted, being carried on by Senators Whiting (the originator), Clark, Shaw, Laning and others. A motion to recommit to the committee consumed much time, there being a counter motion to lay the motion to commit on table, which being lost the motion to commit loomed up in its original importance and the ground was all gone over again, when the bill was ordered to third reading. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution in relation to the veto power of the Governor was passed was laid on the table. Adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE

the long pending question was by unanimous consent suspended for the purpose of introducing new bills, about fifty of which were ordered to first reading. Following these were petitions in favor of high license, and a large amount of general business was pressed into a short time. The dead-lock which has held the House at a standstill for nearly a fortnight was finally broken at 11 o'clock by the adoption of a resolution to proceed to the regular order of business. The Fuller bill, on second reading, regarding high license, occupied the time until adjournment.

A Big Fire.

LEXINGTON, KY., February 28.—A fire broke out in Paris last night at 8:30 o'clock in the barber shop of Henry Daum. The origin of the fire is unknown. A whole block was totally destroyed. The Presbyterian Church was the only building saved. The buildings burned were Davis & Lyle's drugstore; Western Union Telegraph office; Jas. Z. Crofton's notion store, J. T. Nesbitt's grocery store, N. Krimer's saddlery store, J. Neal's saloon, Walter Clark's livery stable, Davis & Ryan's grocery store. The loss will be between $75,000 and $100,000. There was much excitement over the fire and the Mayor telegraphed to Lexington for assistance, which was promptly rendered. A steam fire engine was sent by train on the Kentucky Central Railroad, arriving there in one hour's time, rendering effective service in arresting the spread of the fire.

THE DETAILS.

LOUISVILLE, February 28.—A special to the Conrier-Journal from Paris, Ky., says: Last night a most disastrous conflagration visited Paris and destroyed one of the principal blocks of the city. About 8:30 o'clock an alarm of fire was given, on seeing the flames issued from Henry Douen's barber-shop. A fire engine was soon on the spot, but the flames got beyond control. Under the same roof are Bayless & Rion's grocery, Walter Clark's livery stable, John Neal's saloon and Douen's shop. This building was owned by Henry Singer, of Paris, tho other property by George Ingles, of Hopkins street, Cincinnati. After these were destroyed the brick building occupied by Nick Keiner as a harne s-making establishment caught and was soon destroyed, followed by the building property of H. T. Paton, occupied by John Nesbitt, grocer, and then the corner block, the old Paris Hotel building, used up stairs as a boarding-house by Mrs. Kenny, and down stairs by Davies & Lyle, druggists, Western Union Telegraph office and Jos. Z. Croxton's two empty store rooms. All were destroyed. The building was owned by R. S. Henderson, Lexington, valued at $15,000, insured for $8,000—$4,000 in Liverpool, London and Globe, and $4,000 in other companies; Davies & Lyle on stock $4,000, insured; Bayless & Rion lose $2,000; insured for $500. H. Doune, $200; insured. Joe Croxton, $1,500; insured in Queen. Walter Clark, $1,500; insured for $1,000. Kruner's loss is not known. Neal, $400; insured. All the buildings in the block were destroyed except Davis' building and the Presbytetian Church. Loss on the Paton and Kreiner buildings is from $2,000 to $3,000 each. The total loss is over $50,000 only; partly insured.

A BIG SCANDAL.

A Divorce Suit Causing a Sensation in Bloomington, Ill.

By Telegraph to Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., February 28.—Mrs. Eleanor E. Ashley has brought suit against her husband, Thomas Ashley, for divorce and alimony, and has thus opened up a social scandal that has been smouldering many years. Ashley is the proprietor of the Ashley house, in this city, though he is such only nominally, as the house is completely imbedded in mortgages held by his relatives. Mrs. Ashley, who was married to Ashley in 1862, is a very charming and estimable lady. Ashley is the son of a capitalist of Springfield, Mass., long since died, who invested largely in Bloomington property twenty-five or thirty years ago. When he died he left Thomas in possession of a large amount of property here. Mrs. Ashley declares that her husband has violated his marriage vows repeatedly. Mrs. Ashley has four children, the eldest being a daughter of eighteen, and asks for a divorce, alimony and the custody of the children.

HORRIBLE CRIME.

The Perpetrator Caught—He Confesses His Guilt.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ALTON, ILL., February 28.—Tuesday afternoon a horrible crime was perpetrated on Silver Creek, Alhambra township, in this county. A ten-year-old girl named Sanders, a daughter of a farmer living there was the victim, and John Jones, a farm hand, the criminal. Jones fled after the act, leaving his victim almost dead. After the discovery was made parties were organized to search, and the story of the crime with Jones' description telegraphed from Carpenter to surrounding points. Last night the fugitive was caught in Edwardsville, identified, and had a preliminary examination. He confessed his guilt and was remanded for trial at the March term. There is strong talk of organizing a lynch party.

A Defaulter Admits His Guilt.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Robert C. Cook, the assistant cashier of the suspended Fifth Ward savings Bank, of Jersey City, of which President Garnet S. Bain, of this city, was treasurer, has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement. Information was furnished by United States Commissioner Muirhead, who has been examining the bank's books. The checks of the depositors, which are retained by the bank, were found to be in excess of the checks by about $10,000 to $11,000. Cook admitted his guilt and made a full confession in the presence of the president and several of the directors. He exculpated Cashier Barber from any knowledge of his thefts. He had taken the money, he said, whenever he needed it and had spent it in high living. His peculations amounted to about $500 a month, while his salary was only $50 a month. He will plead guilty, he says, when arraigned.

Sentenced.

JERSEY CITY, February 28.—Robert Z. Cook, arrested yesterday for embezzling $9,780 of the Fifth Ward Savings Bank's funds, entered a plea of guilty and was promptly sentenced to five years in the State's prison.

A Prize-Fight in a Saloon.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, February 28.—A brutal exhibition of pugilism occurred yesterday between two bar-tenders of the stock yards named Hugh McGuire and Patrick Kelly. Bad feeling has existed between the men for some time, and resulted in a "mill," which took place in the rear of a saloon on the corner of Forty-fourth street and Emerald avenue. A ring was formed, and the beligerants made preparations for the encounter. After stripping to the waist they shook hands and commenced to pound each other in the most brutal manner. Five rounds were fought before the police interfered and arrested the principals and attendants. McGuire scored the first knock-down, while Kelly drew first blood. After the first round Kelly punished his antagonist severely, closing his eyes and disfiguring his face. Kelly also gave evidence of having received rough treatment at the hands of McGuire. During the evening the pugilists received bail and were discharged.

Earthquake at Newport.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., February 28.—An earthquake shock at Newport last evening was very generally felt. A number of panes of glass were broken in the vicinity of Miantonoma Hill. The houses at Stonebridge and on the island were badly shaken. At Torpedo Station the shock was so great the officers thought the magazine had blown up. At Norwich a meteor had been observed by large numbers three minutes before the shock.

Noted Crooks Arrested.

CHICAGO, February 28.—Gilbert Yost and Bid Houlihan are arrested for connection with the robbery of Vail's jewelry store at Laporte, Ind., some weeks ago. $600 worth of diamonds of the $10,000 in the property stolen were recovered at Houlihan's house. The men are known to the police as two of the most expert criminals in the country.

Confessed Judgment.

CHICAGO, February 28.—George W. Taylor & Co., large paper and printing establishment, confessed judgment this morning for $120,000. Their place was seized by the Sheriff, and is now in the hands of the Deputy.

Georgia's Debt.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Hon. D. N. Speer, Treasurer of Georgia, has sold $160,000 of United States bonds for Georgia and placed the proceeds, exceeding $180,000, in bank to reduce the debt of the State.

Damaged by Fire.

HARTFORD, CONN., February 28.—H. C. Dwight & Co.'s wool scouring mill, at Windsor Locks, was damaged by fire this morning $25,000; insured.

THE POPLAR TRACK.

Judge Barclay Renders a Decision on the Ejectment Pleadings.

An Adverse Ruling to the Gould Interest--Important Interpretation of Law on the Subject.

Judge Barclay this moring rendered a decision of importance in a case which attracted more than ordinary attention, the right of possession to the Poplar street track, extending from Seventh street to the levee, thence north to Biddle street, and south to the Iron Mountain track, Plum street. The decision is upon a demurrer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to the petition of the St. Louis Connecting Railroad Company, who are suing in ejectment. The company is composed of a syndicate who purchased at Sheriff's sale to satisfy an execution in respect of a judgment obtained against the Pacific Railroad Company on account of rent of the Boonville branch. The controversy as to whether the Poplar street track was included in the mortgage deed of the Pacific railroad figured in this litigation. Judge Barclay to-day passes upon the real issues raised on the pleadings. The Missouri Pacific Railroad Company insisted that ejectment would not lie to recover this property on the ground that the estate taken by a company for its road being limited to its corporate purposes is a mere easement which cannot be the subject of such an action. The syndicate on the other hand insisted that under the Missouri statutes ejectment may be employed to recover any kind of lands, tenements or hereditaments whatsoever. The court says:

"That ejectment will not lie to recover every hereditament or even every interest in realty is self-evident, and the statutes on the subject must be read with a reasonable regard to the physical possibilities of legal procedure. A tenant's right, after expiration of his term, to crops of his own planting on the demised estate, is an interest in land, yet it certainly cannot be recovered in ejectment, nor could a common of pasture or many other incorporeal hereditaments be the subjects of such an action because from their nature incapable of physical delivery by the officers of the law. On the other hand, it has been adjudged that many rights in their nature purely incorporeal may be recovered in ejectment if connected with an appendant or appurtenant to definite corporeal property capable of physical delivery and in its nature realty. Lord Eldon sustained an ejectment for a turnpike road as appurtenant to the toll-houses and gates. Even a right of common was recovered in ejectment brought for the lands to which such right was appurtenant. Some of the American courts have gone so far as to permit ejectment by a municipal corporation for its real estate or interests in the public highways composing its streets, even though in some instances it was conceded that such interest was a mere easement. Applying these principles, it would seem clear that when a railroad company by condemnation or other lawful means has acquired the right to place its road upon the soil, coupled with a right of way for the term of its charter, and thereupon has laid its ties and rails and perfected and operated its line, the completed track and road-bed become in their nature realty and capable of a physical delivery. If so, the strict right of way and other incorporated rights and privileges necessarily appurtenant or incident thereto could be constructively deliverable along with these physical objects. It is necessary to decide what precise estate or title the railway company has in its road-bed. It is at least some kind of an interest in the soil which justifies the present possession of the land occupied by its road-bed and track, while the latter constitutes such tangible property as the Sheriff could deliver possession of. This is all that is essential, for ejectment will lie for anything permanently attached to the soil of which the Sheriff can deliver possession.

"The Missouri Pacific Company contends that there can be no recovery, because possession of a part only of a railroad line is prayed for. The Supreme Court has held that a railway cannot be sold piecemeal or by detached fragments on execution, because that would necessarily divert the residue of the road from the quasi-public uses which the line is intended to subserve. Whether this rule would be extended to cover the case of a district branch of the road which might be held or operated adversely without prejudice to the usefulness of the main line has not been decided and is not clear. But it would seem that the theory on which the decisions on this subject proceed would not apply to such a branch of the main line as could be segregated therefrom without impairing the public uses or purposes of the main road. Whether the branch defined as such in the petition is in fact of this character does not clearly appear. If it shall be proven such, it may be the subject of a recovery, as prayed herein on a proper showing of facts, otherwise it cannot be. Under the allegations of the petition this branch road may or may not be of this character, but upon demurrer where one or two constructions will sustain and the other defeat a pleading it is the duty of the court under the code as expounded in the State whence we transplanted it, to adopt the former construction. The question raised upon the alleged insufficient and uncertain description of the property sought to be recovered must be decided adversely to demurrant. It is impossible to say at this stage of the case whether or not the description in the petition is adequate. It may be disclosed by evidence as claimed by plaintiff that by local usage or popular knowledge the mere words: "Poplar street track" would be a sufficient designation of the property in controversy to the sheriff. If so it would suffice under the Missouri decisions which have sanctioned descriptions such as these. The demurrer is overruled."

The case will now be set for trial and determination. Col. Don Morrison, Charles H. Peck, and others, who belong to the syndicate are jubilant over the decision above. The Poplar street track is an important connecting link for freight transfer. No hearing has yet been had on the application for appointment of a receiver of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. This matter, it will be remembered, was pressed by the judgment creditors of the Pacific road, in respect of old judgments not satisfied.

THE EXPOSITION.

The Building—Subscription List Nearly Full—Committee Meeting To-Night.

Mr. Sam M. Kennard, of the Exposition Executive Committee, has publicly expressed his ideas concerning the building which it is proposed to erect on Missouri Park, if that ground is obtained for the enterprise. Mr. Kennard wants a cross-shaped structure, with the departments so arranged as to meet all the requirements demanded by exhibitors and the public. A POST-DISPATCH reporter interviewed others of the committee but they seemed disposed to say nothing about the proposed building. All favored the idea of waiting until the meeting at the Mercantile Club house to-night. After the selection of the directory, a building committee will be appointed. Mr. R. M. Scruggs said he was in favor of having the committee visit all the principal cities in which they would be likely to find large and handsome structures and then report upon a plan as perfect and as elaborate as possible, which the architects of the country would probably be invited to work from. Mr. Lippman, of Graff, Bennett & Co., wanted the utmost publicity given to the Exposition so that all the architects of the country could compete for the work. Mr. D. D. Walker, of Ely, Walker & Co., said he wasn't certain that there was not enough architectural talent at home to put up the building. He, like Mr. M. M. Buck, was inclined to wait for the election of the directory and the suggestions of the architects. Mr. Buck said the directory would probably be elected by voting according to shares of stock, and that all subscribers would be called upon to vote, that he thought was the proper way.

The subscription lists still continue to grow in a satisfactory manner, and it is expected that all of the committees will submit final reports Friday night, and that the full amount desired will be subscribed. Two additions have been made to the POST-DISPATCH fund—Tyler & Bridgewater, of 72 North Eleventh street, $50, and Henry Ward, of 1839 Benton street, $25.

Mr. Chas. H. Turner said this morning that he was not at liberty to disclose the names of any more subscribers, as the committee had decided not to make them public until the books had been closed, but the subscriptions are coming in right straight along. Yesterday and to-day about $2,000 have been received from circulars, and the committee on plumbers and gas-fitters have reported $1,400. "You had better state, "he said, "that those who desire to subscribe must hurry or they won't get a chance to help the boom."

Mr. Turner expects to have an alphabetical list made out of all the shareholders by Saturday night.

Mr. Sam Kennard said he had nothing new to-day. The subscriptions are still pouring in. He said the executive committee would meet to-night at the Mercantile Club for the purpose of arranging the details and of deciding upon the time for organization and also for the transaction of any other business that may come up. He said every member of the committee ought to be present. He also desired it to be stated in the POST-DISPATCH that it was very important that all of the soliciting committees hand in their book with full and complete lists by Friday night, as it was the intention of the Executive Committee to complete the the entire list of subscribers by Saturday evening.

SIMPLY SURPRISING.

Wonderful Cures of Chronic Diseases.

Cripples, Cross-Eyes and Chronic Catarrh by Dr. Hartman.

From last Sunday's Globe-Democrat.

The Lindell Hotel still continues to be the scene of Dr. Hartman's wonderful cures of chronic diseases. "They are simply astonishing," said Capt. Harry Haskins, the chief clerk of the hotel, yesterday. "Do you know that when the Doctor first came I could hardly believe he possessed such skill? But when I saw some of the cures I soon came to a different conclusion. I have seen this hotel corridor crowded with all sorts of people inquiring for Dr. Hartman. I have seen cross-eyed persons come, and, after visiting Dr. Hartman, they would come down with just as straight eyes as anybody."

"He must be

spoke up Col. Will Nave. "I met a man here the other day and he could hardly speak, he stuttered so badly. He inquired of me the way to Dr. Hartman's room, and I could hardly understand him, he stammered so terribly. Well, I met the man to-day and he talked fluently to me. I did not know what to make of it, and I asked him to explain, and he said Dr. Hartman cured him."

These remarks of Capt. Haskins and Col. Nave are but samples of the kind a Globe-Democrat reporter hears every day about the Lindell Hotel. Capt. Haskins further told the reporter that all classes of people visited Dr. Hartman. The physician has among his patients members of some of the best families in the city, who will testify to his skill as a medical scientist. While his cures were really astonishing, Dr. Hartman does not pretend to perform miracles, but he does claim to cause cures that the average physician would CONSIDER AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

To those that have complaints in this line of specialities, such as cross-eyes, stuttering, cripples, chronic catarrh and other chronic cases and would like to be treated, but doubt his powers, the writer says go and see patients whose names are given below.

A reporter last night made a visit to the doctor's room at the Lindell, and the following is what he saw and learned:

STUTTERING CURED.

Wm. Harris, 17 years of age, who resides with his father, John Harris, at 1526 Austin street, stammered so badly that he could not utter three words without breaking down. This was only two weeks ago when he first visited Dr. Hartman. Now he converses fluently and can read with comparative ease. Last night he was able to give utterance to a well-spoken speech of thanks to Dr. Hartman.

Wm. Boat, 1503 South Tenth street, was an inveterate stammerer. Dr. Hartman treated him some ten days ago and the improvement he has made is astonishing. His parents, as well as himself, are delighted with the result of Dr. Hartman's treatment.

CROSS EYES.

Fred Bearing, of 113 Orchard street, until recently was afflicted with cross eyes. It was a very bad case. After having them operated upon by Dr. Hartman they were perfectly straight.

Philip Deveraux, of 4014 Fairfax avenue, was the next patient seen by the reporter. The reporter could see nothing the matter with him and he explained he was cross-eyed until treated by Dr. Hartman. "Now they are all right," he said.

Otto Steiber, of 1024 Stoddard avenue, when 3 years old, was injured by a fall and his sight was affected. Now he can see everything.

CHRONIC CATARRH.

C. W. Meiller, of 406 South Fourth street, is 6 years of age, and has been a sufferer from chronic catarrh, which had become quite offensive. When he came to Dr. Hartman, two months ago, he was told it would take six months to cure him. But he has progressed beyond all expectation. All nearly all signs of the disease have disappeared. Before being treated he could not breathe out of the nose, and now he has perfect control of the nasal organ.

Anthony Gastreich and his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, who are well known in musical circles as vocalists, have been afflicted with catarrh. Both of them were unable to sing. The daughter's lungs were seriously affected. She was losing in flesh and was alarmingly lean when put under treatment. She is now gaining in flesh, and will weigh several pounds more than she did two weeks ago.

Mr. Gastreich has also shown rapid improvement under the physician's care, and it will not be long until they can commence to sing as sweetly as of yore. Their home is at Barton and De Kalb streets.

Dr. Hartman will remain two weeks longer at the Lindell.

THE DONNELLY CASE.

An Effort Made to Conclude a Long and Tedious Investigation.

The Donnelly-Gleeson libel case was docketed in the Court of Criminal Correction for 10 o'clock this morning. Judge Noonan decided to postpone the regular cases until Friday and to give the State and defense in this case an opportunity to present a great deal of testimony, and hasten the disposition of a matter that has now been dragging on in this tribunal for thirty-five days. The absence of a juror, who was unavoidably detained from attending at the above mentioned hour, delayed the proceedings until noon, when Mrs. Susan Smith was placed on the stand in rebuttal for the State. She detailed the story complained of as libellous, and said that she had heard it from the lips of the defendant. After hearing the story, which she even then thought was untrue, according to his testimony to-day, she determined to go to Father Gleeson and talk him about the matter. She did call at the parochial residence once with this intention but Father Gleeson was not at home. Mr. Donnelly, the defendant, was aware of the witness' intentions, because she had spoken to them to Mrs. Burns and O'Hearn, neighbors of the defendant. The witness stated that the defendant had assaulted her with a bar of iron on one occasion. She denied that she had taunted Mrs. Donnelly at any time. Mrs. Maggie Hoolihan was put on the stand after the noon adjournment.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Prohibition Defeated in the House by 68 to 59 Votes.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, February 28.—The Prohibition question was settled, for this session, at least, in the House this morning. Jones, of Clinton, chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, made a report recommending that the Prohibition amendment do not pass. Jones moved that the resolution be printed. McGinness then offered the following amendment providing that any legislation for carrying the amendment into effect shall make adequate provision for the reimbursement of brewers, distillers and others for all losses they may sustain as the result of the enforcement of the amendment. Parker of Lincoln, moved that the amendment lie upon the table. This was done with a view of carrying the whole measure with it, and it was thoroughly understood. On the test vote on the question of Prohibition, Mr. Stapleton, of Barry, made several efforts to dismiss the question, but the Speaker inexorably enforced parliamentary laws and the vote was taken amidst considerable excitement, with a result of 68 ayes to 59 nays. The only St. Louis members voting in the negative were Ryan and Brooks.

THE VOTE OF THE HOUSE

was as follows: Ayes—Allen, Bashaw, Batterton, Bentley, Blackburn, Bradford, Bradley, Brady, Braswell, Carroll, Catron, Cockerill, Curtiss, Danforth, Dawson, Dennis, Ellerbe, Farris, Ferry, Gage, Grabenhorst, Gunn, Hall of St. Louis city, Hall of Vernon, Hornsby, Howard, Hunter, Inglish, Isbell, Jaqua, Jones of St. Louis city, Judge, Kent, Krauthoff, Lakenan, Lander, Langenberg, Lay, Longan, McGinnis, Marmaduke, Moler, Moran, Morehouse, Moulder, Muench, Murphy, O'Fallon, Parker, Rogan, Righter, Rogers, Rouner, Sitton, Skidmore, Storts, of Phelps, Vories, Walton, Wells, Whitelaw, Whittington, Whybark, Williams, of Morgan, Williams, of Washington, Wingo, Wood, Wray and Mr. Speaker.

Noes—Adkins, Alexander, Anthony, Bailey, Baskin, Bonham, Bradford of Pettis, Brooks, Brown, Burriss, Carleton, Carter, of Lafayette, Clark, Collier, Cook, Cranmer, Crum, Doling, Ford, Garver, Gideon, Gray, Hackney, Hamilton, Harmon, Harrington, Jenkins, Jones of Clinton, Linsee, Martin, Martindale, Norris, Pidcock, Porter, Proctor, Raney, Rawlins, Renfrow, Robinson, Ryan, Schooler, Selvidge, Shankland, Smith, Stapleton, Storts of Shannon, Strickland, Swetnam, Taylor of Dunklin, Taylor of Grundy, Tubb, Vannote, Van Zant, Wade, Whitmer, Williams of Webster, Wollard, Wright and Wyckoff.

The House passed a joint and concurrent resolution requiring the Assembly to adjourn on March 15.

The question of giving the publications of the State Board of Immigration to the Missouri Immigration Society came up in the shape of a favorable report upon the Senate bill.

Mr. Storts made a fight in behalf of the Missouri Land Company, but was defeated, and the House will pass the Senate bill.

IN THE SENATE

the bill appropriating $10,000 for additional buildings at the State University was discussed at length, and at last recommitted to Senator Bryant's committee to correct informalities. The geological survey bill after being put on its third reading, was recommitted for correction.

SEIZED AN INK-STAND.

Ingersoll and Merrick Have an Angry Altercation in Court.

WASHINGTON, D. C. February 28.—In the Star Route trial the cross-examination of Rerdell was continued. A cutting remark by Ingersoll to witness caused an angry passage between counsel, during which Merrick spoke of Ingersoll as a puppy, and Ingersoll, his face red with anger, called Merrick a dirty dog, at the same time involuntarily picking up heavy inkstand. The Court finally restored order and said it was greatly shocked and outraged. Mr. Merrick began to explain he had been pressed beyond endurance, but the Court interrupting said the language was inexcusable under any provocation Merrick expressed his sorrow. No man had greater respect for the court, and he would bow with submission to it. The Judge thought it was due the court that the remark be retracted. Merrick said he would retract by direction of the court, but hoped Ingersoll would be asked to retract as well.

Ingersoll said as far as he was concerned he would willingly ignore any remarks, but he wanted it understood that no man could abuse him without resistance on his part. Said he, "I would do it at the day of judgment; if I were assailed by God I would defend myself with my little puny power."

The court deprecated the bad temper displayed by counsel all along, and after some further explanation the affair was amicably settled and the entire passage stricken from the record.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Train Ditched—One Killed and Fifty Wounded.

CHICAGO, February 28.—The Journal's Palatine, Ill., special says: Three cars of the Dakota train on the Chicago and Northwestern train was ditched near here at noon. One child was killed and about fifty passengers wounded.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

The speculative grain markets were quiet and rather badly mixed; at any rate local operators were, and waiting for decided changes they would not trade with any freedom. Liverpool cables were still quiet to dull and the feeling weak; the weather was clear and spring-like both here and about all over the country, the Signal Service map, blooming all over with red disks, indicating clear weather. Chicago advices were all bearish, with rumors of failures, one of which was said to be a paper house for $300,000. McGeogh and other powers in that market were writing and wiring down that everything was a sale. All this was depressing enough, and early sales of wheat, corn and oats were at declines, but somehow or another the market could not be held down. Chicago grain markets commenced rearing their heads up, and then moved steadily upward. Large buying orders from the seaboard were reported as received there, this indicating a change for the better in European cables. It was said that J. B. Ream was working a big "scalp" in that market and forcing prices up. Whatever was the cause, there was an advance and Chicago shorts were frightened into buying. As the local cash market was strong and the speculative grades higher, the feeling became stronger here and values went up quite stiffly, but there was a relapse later, on account of an unfavorable turn in other markets, and the close was weak. Wheat was then ¼c higher for February, March and July; ¼c lower for April and May, and June the same as at close of yesterday; corn unchanged for March and April; ¼c higher for May and ¼c better for June; oats ¼c higher for March and April, and steady for May. Cash wheat, while firm and higher, was quiet, chiefly through small offerings. Corn sold actively for shipment, and No. 2 mixed, in large part, was taken by a speculator.

Wheat—Receipts 2,186 sks, 11,000 bu. No. 2 red $1 11@1 11¼ regular: February $1 10¾ and later $1 11¼ bid; March $1 10¾ to $1 11¼, closing at $1 11¼; April $1 12⅞ to $1 12½; May $1 14 to $1 15 @⅛, closing at $1 14½; June $1 14½ to 1 14¾, closing nominal at $1 14¼; July $1 09¼ bid; No. 3 red $1 06¼ this side; No. 4 nominal; rejected 89 E. side; No. 2 Mediterranean $1 14 in C.; No. 3 do, $1 06¼ bid regular.

Corn—Receipts 262 sks, 64,900 bu. No. 2 mixed 53⅞@53⅝, regular closing at 53; February 52⅞ and later 53⅛ b.; March 53⅝ to 53; April 53¾ to 55, closing at 54⅛; May 55⅝ to 56⅛, closing at 56 b.; June 56⅛ to 56⅜, closing at 56⅛ b.; No. 2 white-mixed 54⅛ regular; rejected do 52½ in St. L.; new do 53⅛@53 this side; new mixed 50⅛@49⅞ this and 50⅛ E. side; rejected 49@48¾ in C., 48 in E.; no grade 42 bid regular.

Oats—Receipts — sks, 8,100 bu. No. 2 39¼ regular, 40 in C. and E., 40@40⅛ in St. L.; February 39⅛@40, closing at 39⅛ bid; March 39⅜@39½; April 40⅛; May 41⅜@42⅛, closing at 42; rejected 39 in A., 40 in St. L.

Rye—Receipts — sks, 550 bu. A weak market and slightly lower. Grade No. 2 selling in a small way at 60 in St. L. and 59⅝ in C.; the best bid for rejected was 55.

Barley—Receipts — sks, 12,000 bu. Most buyers well supplied and business very small. We quote rejected at 45@57½; No. 3 55@60; prime to strictly prime 72½@67½; choice 70@72½; fancy 75@80.

Flour—Receipts 4,425 brls. Demand quiet and mostly for choice and family. All other grades neglected. The feeling was a little unsettled and values easy, although quotably unchanged. We quote: Extra fancy $5 50@5 65; fancy $5 30@5 40; choice $5 10@5 20; family $4 55@4 70; xxx $4 05@4 20; xx $3 65@3 70; x $3 15@3 30; superfine $3 00@3 10; fine $2 80@3 95; favorite brands 25c higher; patents $6@6 75.

Cornmeal—Unchanged and quiet at $2 90@3 00 on orders delivered; grits, pearl meal and hominy at $3 90@4 00.

Rye Flour—Steady at $3 90@4 25.

Mill feed—Strong and active, selling mainly for Southern shipment. Sacked bran 77@78 at mill, and on track 80@82 f. o. b.; bulk 65 at country point, 66 this side.

Hay—Receipts 253 tons. A more settled market, but no change in price, and the demand was active on local and shipping account. This side—Prairie $7 50@8 50 for prime to strictly prime; $9@9 50 for choice to fancy; common to choice clover mixed $7@12 50; timothy $12 50@13 for prime; $13 50@14 for strictly prime; $14@15 for choice; $16 for fancy. East track—Mixed $6 50@11; timothy $11@13 for prime to choice $14@15 for choice to fancy.

Provisions—Receipts 697,980 lbs meats, 56,870 lbs lard. An active demand supplemented by a higher Chicago market exerted a beneficial effect, and the feeling locally was very strong, with the tendency stiffly upward, dry salt and bacon selling higher. Liveliest trading was in dry salt meats, considerable selling at up country points, but the price kept private. On spot there was a good business, loose longs bringing 9.80 and c'ribs at 9.90@10 f. o. b.; fair quotations on the market were 7.40 for shoulders; 9.90 for longs and 9.20@10⅛ for short clear. Bacon was in demand, but moderate offerings restricted business; packed longs sold at 10⅝@10¾ and loose at 10.45, and packed short clear at 11@11⅛; c'ribs were worth 10⅞. Prime steam lard was quotable at 11¼. Standard mess pork sold on spot at $18 37½ in old pkgs; $18 42½ bid for April and $18 65 for May. Hams 11½@13½. Tallow 8 for fancy cake, 7⅞ for choice in oil brls; falling off lots and irregular pkgs 7¼@¾; grease tallow 7@¼. Breakfast bacon 11¾@13. Grease 5¼@5¾ for brown. 6@7 for yellow, 7¼@9 for white. Beef—Extra mess $12@16 per brl according to brand; $7 50@8 50 per half brl; dried 12½@13½, strictly choice 16 per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $4 50@5 per doz. Salt—Domestic $1 20 this side $1 15 on E. side per brl. Ground alum $1 15 per sack for round lots, $1 25@1 25 in a small way.

Highwines—Locally unchanged at $1 15. Movement fair, sales amounting to 187 brls. Cincinnati firm at $1 14. Chicago unchanged at $1 17. Peoria firm at $1 15.

Lead—Reported sales to-day were 12 cars refined at $4 25 del., 5 cars hard at $4 25 and 4 cars hard at $3 22½. These sales indicate a better feeling and demand, but there is no particular strength to the market. Spelter is nominal at $4 30.

Grass Seeds—Quiet and generally unchanged. German millet continues dull at 90@1 00; common do quiet at 55@67½; timothy steady at $1 60@1 70; clover firm at $7 25@7 75. All others neglected. Hungarian 80@90; red-top 60@75. Sales small, consisting of 301 sks. German millet at $1 00.

Flaxseed—Unchanged at $1 26@1 27 for pure test.

Hempseed—Quiet at $1 35@1 40.

Castor Beans—Salable at $1 50 for prime.

Oats—Firm. March 39⅞ b.; April 40⅝ b.; May 42.

Cotton.

There appears to be no let-up to the dullness of spot cotton. Both the local and outside markets reported a dull trade and easier feeling. Values, however weak, were unchanged. New York, middling still quoted at 10 and 3-16; New Orleans, 9⅝; and Liverpool uplands easier at 5 and 9-16. The movement was very small at all points. Futures again were lower, notwithstanding the improvement at last evening's close. Liverpool opened weak and 1 to 2-64 lower, closing flat at a further decline of like amount. At New York the market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points, and after fluctuating considerably, more or less of an upward tendency was developed and prices closed slightly higher than at the opening. New Orleans was 1 to 5 points off at the opening of the market, but indications of an advance were shown by the 1 p. m. call, although in not so marked a manner as at New York.

CATTLE—There was an increased attendance of buyers in the market this morning, and all wanted cattle, the general demand for butchers' and shipping grades being quite urgent, so much so, indeed, that sellers were enabled to get strong yesterday's prices, which were fully 25 cents higher than those ruling at the opening of the week. The market was not greatly different from yesterday, excepting there was more activity and larger movement. Butchers' cattle were in small offering and not very good in quality, but sales were made at high prices and it was not long before the supply was cleaned up. There was a very fair business in shipping cattle during the opening hours. Dealers were on hand in good numbers and the outlook was encouraging for an active day's business at strong prices. Values at 11 a. m. were very firm, and the sales given below are a good indication of the prices prevailing during the morning. We quote;

HOGS—The market opened early and strong with a much larger supply on sale than we have been able to report for some little time. Buyers were very well represented, there being one or two packers and shippers and the usual number of butchers and scalpers. At the start sales were made at about yesterday's figures, but later the market showed a tendency to greater ease, buyers were less eager in their demand and more urging was necessary in order to make sales. In some cases about 10c was taken off and a decline of 10c before the close was anticipated and made; still the prices obtained were very satisfactory and there were a number of transactions made at as good figures as prevailed the day previous, notably to packers, who paid from $6 90@9 35 and shippers who bought liberally at $6 85@7 00. Other sales were to butchers at $7 15@7 30. At these figures a large business was done, and by 11 a. m. the offerings had been almost closed up. We quite light to good Yorkers $6 85@7, mixed to good packing $6 90@7 25, and butchers to heavy $7 10@7 35; skips and culls $5 75@6 25.

City of Helena, Vicksburg.
Hudson, Uniontown.

CLEARED PORT TO-DAY.

Centennial, Capt. Thos. L. Davidson, New Orleans.

STEAMERS ADVERTISED TO CLEAR.

None.

THE LEVEE.

The City of Helena arrived this morning.

The My Choice leaves to-morrow with a fleet of loaded barges.

The Hudson came in at 11 o'clock this morning, loaded to the guards.

The new steamer City of St. Louis is expected to get here by to-morrow night.

The light-house tender Joseph G. Henry is at the foot of Vine street receiving supplies.

Business is very active. Several steamers have had to refuse freights during the past week.

The river shows only three-fourths of an inch decline since 10 a. m. yesterday and was stationary at 11 a. m. to-day.

The City of Cairo got in this morning. She returns to Vicksburg to-morrow in the St. Louis and Vicksburg Anchor Line.

Owing to her not being able to get all engagements aboard, the steamer Centennial did not get off for New Orleans until 10 a. m., to-day.

All business or news letters or telegrams should be addressed: POST-DISPATCH, 515 and 517 Market Street.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1883.

BEFORE the water changes its hue a coat of it should be spread over the city parks as a fertilizer.

THE sufferers of Shawneetown have the strongest kind of a claim on the sympathy and charity of St. Louis. They should not be forgotten.

DR. LEETE may succeed in silencing the jangling chimes in the church steeples, but he will never be able to suppress the smoker on the rear platform.

THE reduction of the police force of St. Louis is a bad piece of business. The city has very little protection now and is in no condition to spare seventeen patrolmen.

THE first question prompted by the sound of a fire alarm is one of wonder as to which fireman will be maimed in the inevitable accident caused by the rickety and impassable streets.

THE San Francisco city government has reduced the pay of the police; the St. Louis officials reduce their numbers. He would be a bold man who would propose to cut down Magoogin's salary.

CHICAGO is still wrestling with the high-license problem. We do not know of any city that stands so badly in need of improvement in the regulation of its bar-rooms—unless it is St. Louis.

DE BRAZZA is going out to the Congo country as a missionary. The French Government has kindly consented to give him a commission in the army, and to aid him in converting the heathen, has furnished him with 100,000 rifles, 20,000 swords, 100 tons of powder and a company of Algerine sharpshooters.

THE French Republic has a very interesting extradition case on its hands in the matter of Mr. BYRNE, whose body is requested by the British Government. One would think that the Government would have its hands full with the prisoners who are already in its clutches, and would prefer not to trouble itself about the BYRNES' and SHERIDANS' who are in foreign countries.

REMEMBERING the history of the old Jacksonian Democrat who went to the White House to get a foreign mission, and who left satisfied with a pair of second-hand boots, the Republican argues that if it cannot get the legal advertising maybe it may get a sinecure clerkship for another member of the KNAPP family in one of the city offices.

A CLOUD of suspicion is cast over all the speeches of great men that have been published in the Republican by the sworn testimony of JOHN KNAPP, that he charged for them as advertising. We sympathize with the distinguished men who have had the brief glory of having their speeches published in the Republican, and who are now ruthlessly exposed by JOHN KNAPP as mere oratorical advertisers.

THE sand-bagger seems to be getting in his work in St. Louis with unpleasant frequency. The unexpected shooting of one of these thugs in Chicago by a gentleman whom he was following seems to have discouraged that industry in our neighbor city, and the assaults in St. Louis are probably committed by Chicago roughs who consider this city a safer field of operations. A dead sand-bagger is among the minor municipal needs of the day.

IN enumerating their acts of public benevolence last Sunday the KNAPPS forgot to mention the fact that Colonel JOHN presented the Fair Association with a live 'coon about two years ago. This was the last public-spirited act on the part of the Republican. Envious persons refuse to credit Colonel JOHN with generosity in this matter and allege that he parted with the 'coon on account of his inability to board it. The probabilities are that 'coon is not legal tender for refreshments at JACOBY'S.

ONE of the questions which the Freight Bureau ought to settle is the question whether the patent and undoubted monopoly of the Anchor Line is a benevolent monopoly or an injurious one. The Anchor Line has driven all other steamers out of competition in the New Orleans trade, and, while the city is dependent on the Barge Line for bulk transportation, all other transportion must go by the Anchor Line. On general principles we are inclined to believe that monopolies will gouge, and that it is unsafe to have any of the important business interests of a great city at the mercy of an individual corporation, but the owners of the Anchor Line are all citizens of St. Louis, deeply interested in its welfare. They should not rest under the imputation of overcharging the commerce of St. Louis.

THE evil of the common pool-rooms in the city of St. Louis does not apply altogether to the sale of pools on the course at Cote Brilliante, though pool-selling in any form is gambling. An effort is being made at Jefferson City to handicap the anti-pool-room bill by tacking on the race-tracks. It is believed that the love of the horse and the admiration for his running capacity which permeates Missouri legislative bodies will induce members to vote against the bill if it prohibits pool-selling on the courses where races are being actually run. The opponents of the bill depend on this amendment for the defeat of the measure, and yet it is openly affirmed that the stopping of pools on the race-courses will greatly impede the development of the race-horse in Missouri.

WHEN the KNAPPS, in their hysterical dread, purchased the remains of the old St. Louis Times in 1881 they found themselves in possession of a contract to do the advertising for the city of St. Louis at the discouragingly low rate of one and four-tenths of a cent a line. Their first work was to destroy and wipe out of existence their formidable rival. In law they were bound to execute and carry into effect this Times contract, but they quietly sneaked into the City Register's office and induced Mr. RICHARD WALSH to give them a new contract at three cents a line. The contract was secretly made. There was no proposition made for bids and no other newspaper in St. Louis was permitted to compete. For three months the KNAPPS received three cents a line for the city advertising when they were legally bound to do it for one and four-tenths cents per line, and they robbed the city of more than $1,000. It was a petty steal, it is true, but in every respect worthy of the KNAPPS. We said then that they were thieves and we take great pleasure in repeating the observation.

THE CASE OF SHERIDAN.

The application of the British Government for the arrest and extradition of J. P. SHERIDAN raises two very delicate questions. The State Department cannot, of course, refuse a hearing to a friendly power in such a matter, and the case must be tried. As yet the public do not know the details of the crime with which SHERIDAN is charged. All that is known is that CASEY, the informer, testified that among the conspirators who were plotting to murder FORSTER he had met SHERIDAN, who was then disguised as a priest, and known as Father MURPHY, and that SHERIDAN had told him that he was extending the Order of Invincibles, and that he would send them arms and money from London.

It is to be presumed that the counsel for the British Government have further testimony which will be produced in the hearing on the question of extradition. But the first point to be noted is that the evidence of an informer or of a dozen informers, cringing to save their coward necks from the gallows, is absolutely worthless unless it is supported by facts which do not depend on that kind of testimony. Since the days of JUDAS no fouler or more revolting figure has blotted the sunlight than this same fawning hound CASEY, who now crouches to lick the hand he tried to bite, and who proves in his own person that there are crimes baser than secret and coward murder. On the mere evidence of such a scoundrel, no man should be troubled in any way.

The second and most important point is the broad and deep question whether this is a political trial or not. Is the Government of Ireland to-day such a Government as this country can lend its official support to? Are we disposed to sustain England in her methods of governing Ireland, of suppressing discontent and of punishing crime? Are the crimes in Ireland mere offenses against common law, or are they the natural irresistible protests of a wronged, oppressed and hungry people? Are the trials in Dublin fair and honest trials? Would the courts dare to acquit a man who was charged with a crime? Is an innocent man safe?

It is no part of our duty to take one side or the other in a purely foreign question, and we have neither excused the cruelty of British rule in Ireland nor the brutality of the crimes which have expressed the revolt of the oppressed. But when the question is transferred to our own shores we do not hesitate to say that this country can have neither lot nor part in the worse than Russian despotism which weighs on Ireland, and that it is our duty to give to every human being who is claimed by British justice the benefit of every doubt, legal, moral and technical, until he is clearly proved by unbought and unquestioned evidence to have been an actual perpetrator of some crime against the law which we uphold. And it is our duty to protect every one, citizen or alien, who has sought the protection of our flag, against the danger of being extradited for one crime and tried for another.

THE JETTY IDEA.

In a letter to Congressman GEORGE, of Oregon, the Civil Engineer HENRY F. KNAPP opposes the scheme of jettying the Oregon rivers, and argues against the principle that by contracting the mouth of a river the channel is deepened and the bar pushed out into deep water.

Mr. KNAPP cites three instances of rivers with wide mouths and deep entrances, the Thames, the St. Lawrence and the Amazon, and says that these three cases "alone lay out stiff and cold the false arguments and theories of engineers," but he omits to mention that the chief reason why these rivers do not form bars is because they do not carry down the sediment from which alone bars are formed.

The Thames and St. Lawrence are not merely clear streams and free from soil, but their harbors are vast estuaries of tide-water and the real mouth of the river is in each case many miles inland.

Mr. KNAPP says: "Where can you name more distinct failures of the jetty principle than by referring to the months of the Mississippi, Fernandina, St. John's River and Galveston Bay?" We do not know about the Fernandina and St. John's River, but Galveston Bay has not been jettied, and if the Mississippi River jetties are destined to be a failure in the future, they certainly are not a failure at present. The trade of the Mississippi Valley knows that the jetties have secured a depth of twenty-six feet over a bar which formerly had less than half of that depth, and will refuse to believe any statement which refers to the improvement of the South Pass as a failure.

THE nice "Cherryble Brothers"—otherwise the KNAPPS—pause in the contemplation of the methods by which they have squeezed corporations in this neighborhood long enough to charge the POST-DISPATCH with irregularities in the matter of its bills for legal advertising. It is only necessary to say that the POST-DISPATCH has conscientiously carried out its contract for this species of advertising. We have assumed the right to have that contract interpreted for us in some instances where there was no obligation resting upon us to do the work at a low rate. Attempts have been made to take advantage of our contract and saddle upon us classes of advertising which we were not legally bound to do at the contract price. One notable instance, and one that seriously comes home to the KNAPPS, was the readvertising for the sale of the St. Louis Times by Mr. CHAS. GREEN, trustee. The second insertion of this notice of sale did not come within our contract. Our bill was made out at the regular rates and paid. The KNAPPS found it among their assets when they carted the expensive wreck, along with its editor, down to the corner of Third and Chestnut streets, and ever since that time they have contemplated it with something of the anguish which filled their souls when they drew up the check the other day for the judgment in the Bridge suit. In this connection we may add that we experience no sentiment of sorrow as the time draws near for the abrogation of our legal advertising contract. We have passed the point where that sort of thing is beneficial to us, and we can afford to leave that species of business to the newspapers that were established in 1808, and which are now driven by adversity to grab everything that is in sight—cold victuals included. We have simply been struck with the peculiar appeal for aid sent by the KNAPPS to their party brethren in Jefferson City.

IN the case of LIEBKE vs. the Illinois and St. Louis Bridge Company, in which Mr. JOHN KNAPP testified that the stock held by the Republican in the Bridge Company was obtained by levying on the concern and trading editorial puffs therefor, the following colloquy took place between the legal interlocutor and Mr. KNAPP, the latter at the time being under oath. Reference was being had to the class of articles in the Republican which were exchanged for Bridge stock:

Q. Did these communications appear in your paper as the expression editorially of the paper or as those of citizens writing to the paper?

A. Expressions editorially are generally voluntary. These were articles prepared by Capt. Eads, giving long statistical figures, and we approved of them.

Q. You published them as a matter of news; they purported to be matter of news?

A. You advertise as a lawyer, and it might be a matter of news.

Q. They purported to be matters of news in your paper?

A. No. Editorial expressions. They were matters of news as an article would be. If you would come down with your speech in this case and have it published, it would be a matter of news, but we would charge you for it. We frequently do publish the speeches of lawyers made in their cases and the decisions of the court, but we do not do that voluntarily. We get paid for that.

It is fair to presume that even a small thief, if engaged in running a newspaper, would be a little chary about admitting that the news columns of his paper were for sale to anybody who could raise the money—lawyers included.

WHATEVER the issue of the conference between the two houses on the Senate tariff amendments may be, the country will have the satisfaction of knowing that all of its tariff interests, by which is meant nothing more nor less than the welfare and prosperity of every manufacturing interest in the country and of many mercantile interests, are made to depend on a point of order, on dodging and shuffling and parliamentary trickery and other ways of meanly evading the plain and honest duty of the legislators, which was to pass the tariff bill on its merits. Congress should have known that it was unable to do this, and should have left the tariff alone. It has not chosen to do this, and all that we have to show for three months of meddling and wrangling is the stagnation of business and the prospect of further injury to valuable interests by the uncertainty as to the action of future Congresses. It is a bad business, taking it all through.

WE regret to learn that our good-natured friend Mr. GODDARD, of the Merchants' Exchange, who is the active supporter of the bill to abolish option dealing, has been troubled by the thought that when we said that the supporters of the bill ought to be suppressed "peaceably if possible, but if not then forcibly," we intended personal harm to him. We hasten to say that no such construction should be put upon our words, and while we differ in opinion from Mr. GODDARD, as we do from many others, about the proper legislation to be applied to the business interests of St. Louis, we admire him, personally, as a straightforward old gentleman, who has the very commendable habit of coming forward and expressing his opinions openly and frankly. We hope he will live long and prosper proportionately.

AMONG the reports of the subscriptions handed in by the Exposition Committees at last week's meeting the report of the capitalists was conspicuous chiefly by the presence of a number of small subscriptions from gentlemen who are merely put under that head because they could not be otherwise classified, but who are neither capitalists nor large property holders nor representative rich men. These latter were conspicuous by their absence, and the omission of their names should be remedied. The Exposition does not need them so much as they need the Exposition, and they should be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of doing something for a city which has done so much for them.

BECAUSE the floods have carried away a part of the works at Plum Point and Lake Providence, the Chicago Tribune jumps on the whole scheme of Mississippi River improvements and calls it a failure. There is reason to believe that, even if the whole river and harbor bill were poured into the Hennepin Canal, the Chicago River and the other large and small steals in which Chicago is interested, the Tribune would still object to any attempt to help the commerce of the West by making any cheaper outlet by way of the Mississippi River. There are people in St. Louis weak enough to declare that Chicago is not hostile to us and that Chicago influence would not injure us if it could, but those people certainly don't read the Chicago Tribune.

IT is worthy of notice that when the KNAPPS draw up and send a bill to the Legislature to secure the legal advertising of the city of St. Louis for their decaying newspaper, they are careful to keep the figures of the required circulation at 3,000. An amendment to the bill now before the House requiring the paper bidding for the advertising to have a daily circulation of at least 10,000 would leave the KNAPPS wandering on the desolate shores of impecuniosity a few years longer.

A BILL has been offered in our Democratic Legislature appropriating $15,000 for an Inebriate Asylum at Excelsior Springs. If the KNAPPS fail to get their advertising bill through we trust that this measure will pass. They will need a refuge.

THE NEW YORK PRESS.

What the Journals of the Metropolis are Saying Editorially To-Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—The Tribune to-day says: "Having succeeded in sending the tariff and tax bills to a conference committee which they control, the Republicans have now resumed the responsibility for a decision of the matter. They can no longer rest upon the plea that Democratic speeches or Democratic amendments or Democratic filibustering have rendered the passage of a bill impossible. If the Democrats refuse to vote for such a bill as may be submitted by the conference committee, they will be judged by the character of the bill which they then reject, but the responsibility for the moment rests with the Republicans, and they have to show whether they can agree upon a measure which ought to be and can be passed."

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "Aspiring diplomats of this republic will henceforth give the post of Minister to Peru a wide berth. To represent the inscrutable policy of this Government and at the same time play the peace-maker in the endless and barren negotiations between the Peruvians and the Chilians, is clearly too much for the powers of any person not supernaturally endowed with tact and prudence. Of the present puny race of diplomasts none are equal to the task. It might be well to try Mr. Blaine and Mr. Shepherd on a joint mission. They know something about west coast politics."

THE JOURNAL.

The Journal says: "If any one supposes for one moment that the old and exploded battle cry of 'spoons' will avail to stop the Butler boom he is very much mistaken. Our friends in the South who have resurrected this myth to lay in the Governor's path ought to have thought of something new. There are some political falsehoods that are too ridiculous to be used even as missiles, and this is one of them."

THE SUN.

The Sun says: "The sundry civil bill, as passed by the House, contains a clause repealing the preemption law. The matter was properly in charge of the committee on Public Lands, who had brought in a report advocating the repeal of the preemption law, but as it was impossible to get the opinion of the House on the repeal during the present session, Mr. Hiscock, as chairman of the Appropriation Committee, induced the House to allow him to include a provision for the repeal in the sundry civil bill. It is not often that we have a chance to praise anything that Mr. Hiscock does in Congress, but this time he has done a really good thing, and the Senate ought to concur therein."

THE HERALD.

The Herald says: "There are now about 1,200 cases on the calendar of the U. S. Supreme Court, and the number is increasing instead of diminishing. Every new case is put at the foot of the list, and has to wait its turn to be reached. A conceded remedy is afforded by the bill prepared by Senator David Davis. The Senate has done its duty by passing this measure. The bill has been in the House ever since the beginning of the session. The neglect of that body to act on it has been inexcusable."

Special Legislation at Jefferson City.

ST. LOUIS, February 27, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Permit me to accord you the greatest praise for your excellent paper of the 26th inst., for the number of original editorials, all of which were to the point and in the nick of time. It is truly refreshing to read the POST-DISPATCH, for its articles are manly and independent, uttered without fear, favor or affectation, and it is on the side of the people, which is not the case with all metropolitan journals. We unite to uphold you in your attack against the constant disposition of the Legislature now in session at Jefferson City to entertain special legislation, which has always proved a curse to every State in the Union that has gone forward in making individual laws for a specific class of people. You refer to a bill called "the Curtis Act," to protect retail butchers, grocers and bakers, as having been presented to the body to be made a law, to the end that whoever patronizes the special businesses named and fails to pay their bills promptly, household goods or anything these tradesmen can seize upon are at once to be taken away and sold to the highest bidder at auction, without regard to any law heretofore or hereafter passed to the contrary. And such an antidiluvi an draft of law as this is laid before an enlightened body of men, and they importuned to sanction the same. Was there ever before such preposterous nonsense invented and carried to the extent this special business has gone? It may be said the mechanics' lien law gives the precedent—a special act passed many years ago to secure mechanics who did work on buildings. We grant that it does, but if one old act is to be held up for all future time for a guide and example, it long since having been ascertained to have been an error on the part of the Legislature in making such a special law, the body had better repeal that one, and more if there are others, and let us begin a clean record with the motto: No monopolies—no special legislation. Bakers, butchers and grocers have to buy from the wholesale merchants and make debts for flour, sheep, bullocks and groceries—then must follow another special law to protect the wholesale men. Butchers, bakers and grocers and their families wear clothes, boots and shoes, use household goods and all the necessaries. They get in debt for them and can't pay. Next, all the boot and shoe, clothing and other merchants must have a law to protect them, and so the Legislature must so continue to pass specia. legislation. All this kind of lawmaking is a great injustice to the masses; it is unconstitutional and void, and you were right, Mr. Editor, in speaking of the subject as plainly as you have done If this bill is to be considered in the Legislature, the members get a line of all trades, business occupations, professions and avocations, all mechanics, trade and business people, and offer each, singly and alone, as amendments to the measure, that all may be secured and not three single and solitary exceptions, and then, when all is done with, offer one more amendment—"that no goods shall be sold and delivered unless for spot cash!"—which will settle it and save further trouble and expense to everybody. Adopt the retailers' rule in European cities—no money, no goods. GIDEON.

Dr. Boyd's Elucidation.

ST. LOUIS, February 27, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The question of "Chandos" in Monday's issue, concerning the interpretation of Mark vi:3, is one of the most difficult in Biblical criticism. A great deal has been written upon it, but to little purpose. Three principal views have been urged.

1. That Jesus had full brothers and sisters. The brothers, four in number, bearing the names of Jacob (or James), Joseph (or Joses), Simon and Jude, all mentioned fourteen or fifteen times in the New Testament, twice with sisters (whose number and names are not given). See Mat., xii: 46:47; xiii:55-56; Mark iii:, 31-32; vi:3; Luke viii, 19-20; John viii:3-5-10; Acts i, 14; I Cor., ix:5; Gal. i:19. This view is maintained by such eminent authorities as Neander, Winer Meyer, Stier, Alford, T. W. Farrar, Andrews and Philip Schaff.

2 That the so-called brothers and sisters of Jesus were his step-brothers and step-sisters, children of Joseph by a former marriage. This seems to be the oldest theory, and was held by several early fathers, as Origen, Eusebius, Gregory of Nyssa, Cyril of Alexandria, Hilary, Ambrose and others. There seems, however, to be no ground for this view, except a vague tradition. It is held by many who cling to the idea of the perpetual virginity of Mary.

3 That they were his cousins, either the children of a sister of Mary, or of a brother of Joseph, the former theory being held by Papias, the latter by Hegesippus and advocated by Lange, Others. But if this third view be the correct one, it is very strange that the sacred writers never called them anepsioi (cousins), or even suggenois (kinsmen); but uniformly used the term adelphoi (brothers). This objection is replied to by saying that these "cousins," having been adopted into the family of Joseph and Mary, were called "brothers" and "sisters" of Jesus, and that "cousins" were called brothers, "according to a common way of speaking among the Jews, respecting persons of collateral descent."

If "Chandos" wishes to see a full discussion of this subject, he will find it in the American edition of Lange's Commentary on Matthew, page 256, in a note by the editor, Dr. Philip Schaff.

The Exposition Building.

ST. LOUIS, February 26.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In reading the POST-DISPATCH last evening I saw that the subject of plans for the Exposition Building was discussed. I think the following suggestion in regard to competition would be received by the committee as the only way in which justice could be done to architects competing for same:

1. Let the committee offer three or four premiums of such amount as will compensate the architects for their work.

2. Each architect to mark his plans with a motto or device, said motto or device with competitor's name to be enclosed in sealed envelope and not to be opened until after the committee have made their award and reported same for ratification to the stockholders.

3. The "awarding committee" to consist of a leading architect from New York, Boston, Cincinnati and Chicago, said committee not to be known until after the awards are made.

I think, Mr. Editor, that this is the only way to secure a fair and just competition, one satisfactory to all concerned, and sincerely hope that you will urge the same in the columns of your valuable paper. As the architects in the city are all subscribing to this enterprise, I think the competition should be limited to St. Louis. Besides, we have plenty of talent here to design a handsome and well-constructed building.

A. WEBER, Ass't.

A Street Car Episode.

ST. LOUIS, February 28, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Monday evening at 9 o'clock a friend and myself boarded car 25 of the Benton-Bellefontaine line, at Eleventh and Benton streets, for the Water Tower. The driver's young lady was on the car, and when we arrived at Hebert street she flung open the front door and proceeded to "interview" him in the latest and most approved form. There was nothing mean about her—she came to see the driver and she was going to see him if it took all night. The evening was chilly, and by coughing, gently closing the rear door and other slight hints we strove to impress on her mind, or that of the driver, that it would be the "proper caper" for her to go out on the platform altogether, or let the driver inside. But no notice was taken of our wishes until we reached Fourteenth street and Penrose avenue, a distance of about two miles. A violent cold was the result of that ride to ones passenger at least, and unless Capt. McCullough desires to kill off his patrons he should set apart a car for the drivers' "mashes," as he has done for the smokers. Such proceeding as the above are doubtless fun for the drivers, but to the passengers they are exceedingly

Discrimination in Milk.

ST. LOUIS, February 27, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Knowing the independent spirit of your paper and by the eternal fitness of things, I would like to know why the directors, Messrs. T. T. Gantt, and H. Hitchcock & Co., of the St. Louis Dairy Company, require the poor of the city to pay four cents more per gallon for pure milk than they do the parties who ride to Forest Park in their own carriages? Four cents extra per gallon for milk may be a small matter to you or myself, but to the parties who are supporting a family of children on one dollar per day it amounts to Prohibition, and, in a great many cases, it leads to the death of children. Equal rights, in pure milk at least, is my motto for the poor, whether they have any rights in Forest Park or not. What do you say? THOMAS J. HENLEY.

The Anchor Line Monopoly.

ST. LOUIS, February 27, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

To confirm what "Shipper" states in the POST-DISPATCH of February 26, the writer will say that the Cairo Short Line Railroad, which is virtually controlled by the Illinois Central, a Chicago institution, has shown more courtesy to New Orleans shippers than our boasted steamboat interests. Furthermore, that the railroad, through General Freight Agent Depew, has used its utmost endeavor to furnish cars and take everything offered. Although the river has been open two weeks, the railroad has carried more New Orleans freight than all the boats leaving here. The boats wanted way freight and refused a pound of New Orleans freight. YALLAH DOG.

A Rhode Island Luxury.

From the Providence Press.

People who live remote from the sea-shore can make a good artificial clam by rolling a piece of soap in sand and ashes, and eating it when it is about half cool. This is rather better than the real clam, but it will give the inlanders an approximate idea of the luxury.

St. Louis Girls.

From the Philadelphia News.

St. Louis girls who go to cooking schools won't permit their names to be known. They are afraid that when their lovers find it out they will want to marry right off, and then they can't have any more fun.

Dorsey's Chance.

From the Chicago Times.

Mr. Dorsey will shortly take the witness stand in his own behalf, and it will then appear that Dorsey is a being of radiant purity, while Rerdell is an unconscious liar and a dangerous horse-thief.

To Silence Scandal.

From the Chicago Times.

The shameful stories retailed by the Washington gossips for the past week or more are, of course, utterly false, but next time the President should be careful to pull down the blinds.

What is He?

From the Lowell Citizen.

Jay Gould says he is not a stock operator. But he wouldn't have folks plainly call him a thief, would he? Must call him something, and the former lets him down kind of easy.

MAGOOGIN ON "NO. 1."

The Talking Policeman Expresses Himself Anent the Phœnix Park Tragedy.

Magoogin stood at Fopiano's stand this morning shining the silver buttons on his coat front with his cuffs, when his attention was attracted by an unusually white and large peanut in the tray on the corner and he made a dive for it.

"Fopi," said he, as he prepared the peanut for the sacrifice, "have ye anny 'pinion at all, at all, about this Num'er Wan they're all talkin' about?"

"Me know-a not'ing" the Italian answered, shrugging his shoulders and keeping his hands in the pockets of his short velvet jacket after the manner of Salvini when he plays "The Outlaw."

"Musha, the divil's bad shkewer to ye, anyway," said the officer. "But do yez know anything? Bedad, an' I belaive not. Ye're always shakin yer ould head and muttherin' to yerself as if ye wor afraid to open yer mouth for fear somebody would find out how little sinse ye have. But be that as it may, you poor anashore, I'll thry an' inloightin' ye a bit this mornin' be explainin' that the Inglish Gover'mint saims to be playin' a 13-14-15 pizzle wid Ireland fur the pasht few months, an', havin' got uv'rything straight as a sthring, at the ind of the game they folods out to their surproise that they can't get the figger wan back in its roight place ag'in. They're loike the little b'y that tuk the watch apart to luk at the fwheels go around—they've solved the Phaynix Park thragedy, Fopi, but they can't put it togither ag'in. If anybody axes me fwhere is Num'er Wan I kin tell 'im it's Ould Ingland, an' Queen Victory hersel' who dhrives the payple to murdher an' rbobery wid their barbarous laws an' the groindin' oppression to which they submits the Imerald Oisle. Let thim sind their blood-hounds shniffin' around Balmoral Castle an' th' other castles fwhere r'yalty baskiks in luxury an' laces, an' thin mebbe they'd git an answer to their pizzle that 'ould open their eyes an' put an ind to the hangin' an' shtranglin' av daicint, innocint min loike thim is now on thrial in Kilmainham. May God dolrect the Judges to luk lanicntly upon thim, fur their greatest and only croime, Fopi, if they sez it thimsel's, is lovin' their native land an' interfarin' wid nobody but Inglish lan'lords fur whom shootin' is too good. They talks about Gineral MacAdaras bein' num'er wan. Faix'n the poor man saims to have bin doin' nawthin' all this toime but moindin' his own bizness. The only num'er wan about him, Fopi, is the num'er wan he was tindin' to fwhin he shkooped in the rich widdy, an' my prayer, me bouchal, is that he may live long to enj'y the forthune he got wid her. They'll nuver made anny other num'er wan in the wurld out of him anny more'n they will av me, who has bin here on the foorce fur the pasht nolneteen year, for MacAdaras was too well off to be anny other koind av a patriot, exceptin' sich as ye foind in the Knoights of St. Fathrick, whose only waypins is their tongues, an' who believes there is more vartue in a two-colyum spaich full av quotations from Thomas Moore than in all the guns an' knoives an' other munitions av war that are to be found in the intoire univarse. MR. W. C. STEIGERS,

Of the POST-DISPATCH, will call upon parties who wish rates for advertising in this paper.

A Slick Swindler.

In accordance with a telegram received early this morning from Marshal Davis, of Springfield, Mo., Sergeant John Burke arrested Benj. F. Shackelford as he alighted from the 'Frisco train at the depot this morning. Shackelford, whose aliases are many, was accompanied by a man named J. W. Key, wife and two children, who were making a visit to St. Louis at the invitation and supposed expense of Shackelford. Shackelford is charged with having borrowed $1,000 of a man in Springfield named Jos. Martin, under the pretense of having a fabulous amount of real estate in St. Louis. Sure it is that he represented to Key that he has a deposit in this city of $265,000, but at the time of starting for St. Louis from Altus, Ark., was out of funds and would be compelled to ask the loan of a hundred or so. Key gave him about $170 altogether, all he had, and now is at the Union Depot, without a cent, and far away from home and friends, while Mr. Shackelford languishes in the Four Courts Jail. Shackelford is also charged with swindling a Dr. Robinson; also a man named Dunn, both of Springfield, out of money. He is a perfect "Gray" in appearance and actions, but sharp as lightning, and is just the kind of a man to hoodwink the ordinary Granger.

KLEPTOMANIACS.

There are Very Few of Them in St. Louis.

A Talk With Merchants--How They are Watched--Ladies Who Pilfer in Stores.

"Kleptomania?" said Mr. D. Crawford, when accosted upon the subject this morning. "I know very little about it. In fact, there is not so much of it going on at all."

"In Chicago it is said that there are at least 2,000 women who are known to steal habitually from stores of this kind," suggested the reporter.

"Well," replied Mr. Crawford, "there is no such number here. Of that fact I am positive. I would know it if the number was any way large, and I say it is not."

"How many ladies or women do you know who habitually make it a practice to pilfer from stores?"

"In all my experience, and I have had considerable, I do not know more than eight or nine in St. Louis. I know every one of them as soon as they come inside the doors. I put somebody to watch them, and they can never get a chance. More than once we have caught them here very cleverly carrying off goods. All we do is to take the articles from them, show them to the door and warn them never to come in here again."

"Why don't you prosecute?"

"The annoyance and the time lost in securing a conviction is what deters the Mercers in St. Louis from doing this. It is hard to make a case, even after all your trouble. I sent that young man over there" (pointing to a salesman) "to prosecute a woman, and because he did not answer all questions straight along about the members of the firm the case was dismissed. A number of lawyer that hang around these courts, will take these cases for almost nothing, will have them continued and will have you out in a dozen ways. So that after your experience in one case, you never feel like trying another. In this case, you see, the woman was fined $25, although nobody has any doubt that she was guilty."

"Do you adopt the New York plan of having detectives about the store in crowded seasons?"

"Yes, and we have an officer or two in private clothes, and all the men are instructed to keep a close watch. Then I am a pretty good detective myself, and as I told you, I think I know all these parties. No, there is not much of what they call 'kleptomaniacs' in St. Louis, and I do not think the stores in general lose anything by it."

MR. D. W. O'HANLON,

the superintendent at Crawford's, said: "If Mr. Crawford knows eight or nine women who are what you call kleptomaniacs, he knows more of them than I do."

"You don't think that this kind of stealing is very prevalent in St. Louis?"

"No. In fact I've been here for twenty-five years. I think it is very rare. It is very uncommon. Of course a little of it is being done all the time and everywhere. In the old country, in Dublin, I knew a banker's wife who regularly helped herself when she thought she was not watched. She had no reason for stealing, but she did it all the time. Her husband had given instructions that no notice should be taken of her, and he paid all the bills sent to him without asking any questions."

"Are there any such cases in St. Louis?"

"No. None that ever came under my observation, and I am pretty sure I would know of them if such things occurred. During the cheap sales and holiday crushes here we have some little pilfering, but nothing to amount to much."

A salesman who was seen at Crawford's said: "I think that there is considerable shop-lifting being done or attempted. The close watch kept, however, prevents it. The parties are always women respectably dressed. A woman who was shabby in appearance would attract attention right away. It is only persons whom you would not be inclined to watch who couuld succeed at the business."

the floor-walker at Famous, said: "No; there is very little of that kind of pilfering done here. The kind of goods we handle do not furnish so much temptation as those sold in dry goods stores. A pair of shoes, for instance, is about as hard a thing to carry off as could be selected, and a shop-lifter could not do much with a stiff hat or a pair of pantaloons. No; we have very little trouble."

"Are there many women who make a practice of this kind of stealing in the city?"

"No, not many as far as I know. In fact I never heard of one that would be entitled to the name of a kleptomaniac. There is some small stealing, but little of the science proper as they have it in New York. I have heard of cases where ladies were allowed to help themselves, the understanding being that the bills would be paid on presentation to the husband."

"Tell me some cases of that nature?"

"I do not know any particulars. I have just heard rumors, that is all. Merchants, as a usual thing, are very chary about letting such facts come out. I never met with such a case myself."

A GENTLEMAN AT BARR'S

said: "There is no kleptomania in St. Louis, and no kleptomaniacs. During the holiday season, we lose some things, but, you know, newsboys and all kinds of people crowd in here, and it is natural that a little pilfering should occur?"

"Have you ever heard of cases where women habitually carried away articles and their husbands paid the bills?"

"Never. Salesmen have these kind of stories, but I do not think there is a word of truth in them. As far as I am concerned, I can say that I have had very great experience, in charge of the departments in this house, and I never knew nor heard of such a case. I think that nearly all these cases come to light. That woman who was tried in the Police Court the other day was fined only $25, when she had at least $500 worth of goods. It was a rather easy thing for her to pay that fine. Most of the goods she had were identified, you know, but the parties could not tell whether they had been paid for or not. There may be some small stealing, but no kleptomania, I think."

Ohio and Mississippi Railway.

Passengers by the Ohio and Mississippi Railway go through from St. Louis to Louisville in ten hours without change of cars. There is no detention from any cause whatever.

A Remonstrance.

Thirty remonstrances, of which the following is a copy, were circulated on 'Change and in places of public resort to-day, and received a large number of signatures:

ST. LOUIS, February 28, 1883.

To the General Assembly of Missouri:

The undersigned citizens of St. Louis and members of the Democratic party, respectfully remonstrate against the adoption of the following measures, or any of them, pending before your honorable body, to-wit:

The Senate and House bills making certain local offices existing under the charter of St. Louis elective. The Senate bill amending the police law. The Senate bill changing the election and registration system now prevailing here. The House bill increasing the force of the Coroner's office and the salary of Coroner. The House bill making it mandatory on the Municipal Assembly on the petition of 1,000 voters, to call an election and submit to the people the proposition whether St. Louis shall pass under the general laws governing cities of the first class.

We remonstrate against the above bills because:

1st. There is no need for additional legislation; the subjects of them, in each instance, being fully covered by existing laws of which no amendment is desired.

2d. They violate the principles of self-government in matters purely local, guaranteed to St. Louis by the Constitution of 1875.

3d. They remove the existing safe-guards governing the expenditures of public monies.

And finally as Democrats we view them as pernicious to and destructive of the interests of the party, as well as of the public welfare.

Closing Day at the Medical College.

The course of lectures at the St. Louis Medical College closed shortly after noon to-day and the students and professors took occasion to express their feelings of friendship in various ways.

All the lectures were regularly attended, but the professors took occasion to introduce among the dry medical information, words of good advice and kindly nature. Dr. Boisliniere closed his lecture at noon and after wishing the students success. "I hope that you will neither forget the teachings nor the teacher." The peroration was received with a round of applause and three cheers for the professor. Dr. E. H. Gregory's lecture, which began at noon, was not missed by a single student, because they know that his custom is to wind up the year with a few remarks that are always both witty and wise. He did so to-day and parted with the students in the jolliest manner. The closing exercises will be held in a day or two.

Sad Case of Destitution.

Mrs. Frances Resch and two children, little girls, one 8 years old and one 14 months old, are wandering the streets this morning without shelter, friends or food. This case has probably not been equaled in St. Louis for many years. About a year since Mrs. Resch was deserted by her husband, who left her in perfectly destitute circumstances. Since then she has been living with her brother-in-law, who lives on Easton avenue. Yesterday afternoon Scheckenlem forcibly ejected his sister-in-law and her two children into the street. Last night Christ. Woltjean, residing at 2634 Franklin avenue, hearing of the unfortunate woman's sad condition, kindly gave her and her children food and a place to sleep last night.. The police of Captain Frangel's staff report that the lady is on the streets this morning.

DON'T fail to examine the shop-worn stock of boots and shoes at Swope's.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

The pay car on the Ohio and Mississippi arrived here last evening. The Indianapolis and St. Louis will arrive this afternoon and the Wabash is expected to-morrow.

Charles Welker, the Belleville surveyor commenced laying out the ground for the improvements at the Little Rolling Mills this morning. A new switch will also be laid to the works.

Two cases against the East St. Louis Connecting Railway were decided in favor of the city by 'Squire Eggmann this morning, a fine of $25 and costs being imposed in each case. The Connecting Road laid tracks near the East St. Louis elevator some time since which the City Council claim are on the city's property. The same charges have been preferred twice, previous decisions being rendered alternately in favor of each side.

Louis Knaus was arraigned before 'Squire Draggon this morning on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor to a minor. Nearly all saloon-keepers in town were in attendance, as the case is a test one, and the decision is of much importance to them. The attorney for the saloon-keeper attempted to prove that Mrs. Liep was prosecuting the defendant for having her other son arrested, but 'Squire Draggon took a different view of the subject and imposed a fine of $20 and costs.

Yesterday evening sevoral white and colored boys quarreled near the Ohio and Mississippi Freight Depot over some grain in a freight car. The white boys were getting the worst of the conflict, when one of them, named Brushe, threw a large stone, striking a colored man named Charles Catron, on the head, inflicting a dangerous wound. Another lad, known as "Frenchy," drew a revolver and fired at the negroes, but missed his mark. His companions disarmed him before the experiment could be renewed 'Squire Draggon issued warrants for the boys' arrest.

The Law Courts.

A petition for divorce on the ground of desertion was filed to-day in the Circuit Court by Mrs. Ellen Mayers against Joseph Mayers.

Judge Lubke heard and took under advisement the evidence in the divorce case of Mitchell against Mitchell, which treated of peculiar domestic infelicities.

The damage case of Mary A. Fay et al. vs. Patrick Bambrick et al. arising from injuries to property caused by a quarry was in progress to-day in Judge Barclay's court.

The following judgments were rendered to-day in the courts: John N. Newhaus et al. vs. F. Huke; judgment for plaintiff for $290 54. G. H. Greve vs. St. Louis Furniture Company; judgment for defendant for $1,444 25.

The following cases were dismissed in the Circuit Conrt: National, Lafayette and Band of Commerce vs. Bissell; Kerbs vs. Jordan, et al.; Heman, receiver vs. Alexander; Garrison vs. Thorne; Russell vs. McDonough.

There was a trial to-day in Judge Horner's court of a case for wages, appealed from a Justice's court, Mrs. J. Miller against S. M. Fitzwater et al. The defendant is proprietor of the Mansion House, a road resort. The husband of the plaintiff presented a claim likewise for services, watering the guests' horses.

A nonsuit was taken to-day in the damage case of Hughey Smith's administrator against the Terre Haute and Indianapolis Railroad Company. This was a suit to recover for the loss of an employe's life through a defective step-board on a yard locomotive. The suit should have been instituted in the name of the heirs.

Judge Barclay's decision on the Poplar street track question, given in another column, overrules the demurrer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to the petition of the connecting Railroad Company; likewise the demurrer is overruled in the ejectment case of the Pacific Railroad against the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company.

The jury in the damage case of Robt. Bruner, et al vs. William Stabe, now tried in Judge Horner's Court, returned this morning a verdict and judgment for plaintiff on each count for one cent. This was an action for assault and false imprisonment. The plaintiff was accused of taking some billiard balls and was walked off to the police station.

The damage suit of J. Demartini, the candy factor on Washington avenue, against H. F. Gruetzemacher, contractor for new buildings on the site of the First Methodist church, is on trial from to-day in Judge Hayner's court. The claim is in respect of damage to stock caused by dust blown from the building material. Mr. Muench appeared for the defendant, and Napton & McEntire for plaintiff.

CITY PERSONALS.

J. W. Ortley, the prominent Socialist leader of Chicago, is spending a week or two among his confreres in the city.

Mr. George E. Atwood, general purchasing agent of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, is in the city, stopping at the Southern.

POKER PLAYERS.

A Congressman Tells Some Secrets About the Game in Washington.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—A Washington correspondent writes as follows: "Senator Tom Bowen, of Colorado, is the best poker player we have in town. Why, the second night he was here, Plumb, of Kansas, and Jones of Nevada, sat down with him to a little game, and I am told he scooped the party to the extent of twenty or thirty thousand in half an hour, but Bowen has lost more than he has won during the last few years.

"WHO ARE THE POKER-PLAYERS IN CONGRESS?"

a member was asked. "There are very few who have seats in the Senate. Old Lapham plays occasionally, and so do Hale and Vest; but as to the others—it would disgrace the game to say they played at all. These are not the times we used to have when Grant was President."

"Is Arthur much of a player?"

"Well, yes. I guess he is about as 'cagey' as any of them. He will sit up all night over a game of poker, when nothing else in the world will hold his attention.

CHANDLER IS A SHARP ONE, too, and I understand that he and Congressman 'Dick' Crawley are about the most expert in that set."

"What set?"

"Why, the White House set. They tell me that they play it 'blind' in deference to Arthur's wishes and this has been the most popular way of running the game here this season. In the 'draw' game there is a little chance for skill, but 'blind' poker in which you don't draw at all, is the most outrageous form of gambling, but, of course, you know all about it."

"Who are the best poker players in the House?"

"Joe Blackburn can deal the paste-boards with as much grace and celerity as any man I know of, and will back his hand to almost any limit. Young Walker, of Pennsylvania, is what is commonly known as a daisy cutter, and Springer, of Illinois, swears by the jack of clubs. The Western men are by far the best card-players. I think Tom Young, of Cincinnati and ex-Governor of Ohio, is about as smart a one as ever sat down to a poker game in Washington. and the man who can bluff him out of a hand has to get up pretty early in the mording. But the poker playing here just now is nothing to what it was at Albany when Boss Tweed ruled the deck."

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Louis P. Carman, an Assurance Man, Missing From His Home.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Mrs. Jennie Carman, of 1779 Broadway, has reported at Police Headquarters that her husband, Louis P. Carman, has been missing since Saturday. Carman is 33 years old, stout and has blue eyes and a bald head. When last seen he was well dressed and wore a gold watch and locket and a diamond stud and collar button. For many years he was secretary of the Manhattan Fire Insurance Co., at 68 Wall street, of which his uncle, Andrew J. Smith, was President. The Phœnix Insurance Co., of Brooklyn, reinsured the company's risks on January 1, assuming all its business and Carman was thrown out of employment. A week later the furnitnre of his home was sold by auction and two weeks ago he moved to the Grand Union Hotel. On Saturday morning when he left the Hotel he said to his wife he would be back at six o'clock that evening, but told her not to weary if he was detained after that hour. Since then she has not seen him nor found any trace of his whereabouts, although she has searched in the hospitals and made inquiries in all directions. She was left penniless, and being unable to pay the board bill for the two weeks residence in the hotel, on Monday and went to the house of a friend. The lady knows nothing about her husband's disappearance and says it is all a mystery to her. Vice-President and Secretary Philander Shaw, of the Phœnix Fire Insurance Company, said that the surplus of the Manhattan Company had all disappeared; that the stockholders would get nothing and that an investigation had been started. He did not think that Carman was involved.

SHE GAVE UP HER ROOMS

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A Girl of Nineteen Takes Laudanum Under Curious Circumstances.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Miss Matilda Schlatter, the daughter of a well-known hotel-keeper, on Hudson and First streets, Hoboken, is the leading soprano in St. Paul's Chapel, this city. She is nineteen years old. For some time it has been noticed that she was melancholy, and she complained that she was in failing health. Early in the day she called a servant to her room and told her to go after her mother in haste The servant noticed that Miss Schlatter was disturbed in mind, but did not think she was ill. But when Mrs. Schlatter arrived in the room she found her daughter lying on the bed unconscious. Near her on the floor was found an empty bottle which smelled of laudanum. Mrs. Schlatter ran down stairs with the report that her daughter was dying. Drs. Hilfer and Chobert were summoned and they succeeded both in restoring her to consciousness and in removing the poison, which was found to be laudanum, from her stomach. It is thought she will recover. She said that she had found her faculties becoming impaired, and that she preferred to kill herself rather than endure confinement in an asylum. Other members of St. Paul's choir speak of her with warm admiration, and express wonder that, with the future before her and with her natural gifts, she should become despondent. Two of the members of the choir said they had observed Miss Schlatter as closely as they had observed any other person, but they had never observed any indications of the impairment of her faculties.

A Very Intelligent Jury.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Jas. Delmore and Joseph Larkin were tried in General Sessions for receiving stolen goods. The prosecution admitted that there was no convincing evidence, but the jury convicted both. Judge Gildersleeve learned that there had been some mistake in the jury-room as to the verdict. He directed the Clerk to recall the jury, and asked for an explanation. "Your Honor," said one of the jurors, "we agreed that our verdict should depend upon what Clerk Weltsa asked us. If he said 'Gentlemen of the jury, do you find the defendant guilty or not guilty?' The answer should be 'guilty,' and so both men would be convicted. If he said 'defendant' only, Delmore alone would be convicted. We did not see exactly how Larkin could be not guilty if Delmore was guilty, but the foreman answered for us all, though some of us did not want both men convicted."

"You should have spoken out if that was the case," said Judge Gildersleeve. "I think that it is my duty to grant Larkin a new trial."

Died from His Wound.

CLEVELAND, O., February 28.—Edward Vetter, not Tetter, as first reported, died this morning from the bullet wound received the night before last at the hands of assailants who are still unknown. A man arrested on suspicion yesterday is thought now to be innocent of this crime. Another has been arrested. Vetter could not tell who the guilty ones were. He was a brewer and had some money in the house, which gives credence to the theory that robbery was contemplated, but frustrated by Vetter's vigorous defense.

Dismissed.

Reginald Maxwell Russell's damage suit for $10,000 for alleged libel against James McDonough, ex-Chief of Police, and others, was dismissed this afternoon in Judge Lubke's court for want of prosecution. A motion for security of costs had been filed by the defendants. The plaintiff detective charged that defendant had used defamatory expressions concerning him.

The Reading Railroad.

PHILADELPHIA, February 27.—The President of the Union Trust Company states he will pay to-day the last installment of $2,000,000 of the car-trust loan to the directors of the Philadelphia-Reading Railroad, which is the main condition of precedent to the relief of receivers.

THE CITY HALL.

Appropriations Run Out—New House of Refuge—Municipal Notes.

Fifteen burial permits were issued by the Health Office, to-day.

The City Treasurer to-day added the following amounts to the city's bank account: Recorder, $69 75; Work-house, $92 25; Second District Police Court, $91; Collector Hudson, $6,448 58; Inspector of Weights and Measures, $69 65; Boiler Inspector, $70.

All the city employes are to-day receiving their salaries except several institutions in the care of the Health Department and Recorder Hoblitzell, and his clerks. The appropriations for some of the departments have run short, and, the Municipal Assembly being slow in doing their duty, employes have to do without their money until Treasurer Merrill has the funds placed at his disposal in the proper way. The doctors at the Female Hospital have not been paid for January yet.

AT a special meeting of the Board of Public Improvements held at noon to-day, the contract for an addition to the House of Refuge was awarded to Charles Wehking, who promises to put it up for $36,500. It will be remembered that the Assembly authorized the erection of new buildings on the grounds, if the plans for the work, approved by a joint committee of the Council and House, could be carried out at an expense of less than $40,000. The plans were drawn by Will S. Eames, Deputy Commissioner of Public Buildings, and were approved by the committee of which E. F. W. Meier was chairman. Then bids were invited and there were eight responses, only two of which went over $40,000 and the lowest being Mr. Wehking's. The addition will be three stories high and almost a duplicate in size and arrangement of the present building. When it is finished the separation of vicious from abandoned children will be satisfactorily effected.

A great deal of interest is manifested in and around the City Hall regarding the Forest Park Railroad bill, which is hanging fire in the House of Delegates. It is thought the bill will be passed Friday night and that the route will be out Olive street to Vandeventer avenue, over Vandeventer to Baker avenue and thence to the park, which may be entered through the Wabash culvert and the rails laid clear over into the picnic grounds. Mr. Robbins, of Graff, Bennett & Co., Judge Boyle, Myer Rosenblatt, Mr. Skinker and other property-owners on Baker avenue are anxious to have the road go that way, while other Baker avenue folks who have property on the thoroughfare are anxious that it be preserved as a drive and would like to see McPherson avenue chosen for the route.

Mrs. Eisenschmidt's Suicide.

Late last night, in a little room in the third story of No. 1311 Broadway, opposite the Round-top Market, Mrs. Annie Eisenschmidt, twenty-two years of age, ended her earthly career by taking a dose of Paris green. From what could be ascertained from the neighbors, it seems that Mrs. Eisenschmidt came to St. Louis with her husband six weeks ago and rented a room at the above number. No one seems to know where the couple came from, as they spoke only the German language and the other families in the building speak only English, so that communication was impossible. From the time that they moved here up to about fourteen days ago the husband and wife, to all appearances, enjoyed the life they were leading. Mr. Eisenschmidt, a few days after his arrival, obtained employment in Belcher's Sugar Refinery on North Second street. He worked along well for a week or two and then began to drink and abuse his wife, and only a few days ago, the neighbors say, he knocked his wife down and dragged her across the floor to the back porch by the head of the hair. The dead lady was always neat about her housework, and always happy in the company of her husband until he began to drink, and that was probably the cause that led her to end her life. She was 22 years old yesterday.

ABOUT TOWN.

AN order issued this morning from the United States Court for the production of Oby E. Owen as a witness in the suits of the Third National Bank against his bondsmen.

AGENT HOLMES, of the Humane Society, swore out a warrant to-day against Robert Robeson, who was arrested by Officer Bennett, of the Central District, on Carondelet avenue, for cruelly beating two mules belonging to the Weisenborn Coal Company.

ALL members of the Scottish Highlanders who were unable to attend last meeting are requested to be present this evening at 8 o'clock in the Assembly Room at the Four Courts. Inspector-General Leigh O'Knapp will "muster in" all present who desire to desire to become members. A full attendance is requested.

LEGAL.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas Michael Whitty, by his deed of trust dated February 2, 1880, and recorded in book 630, page 245, of the records of the office of the Recorder of Deeds for St. Louis, conveyed to the undersigned the property therein described, in trust, to secure the payment of the notes therein mentioned. And whereas said notes have become due and remain unpaid, now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, I will sell the following described real estate in said deed described, as follows; Lot number fifteen of block number one of Armstrong's subdivisions, and in city block No. 2280, having a front of twenty-five feet on the north line of Hickory street by a depth northwardly of one hundred and thirty-two feet. more or less, to an alley fifteen feet, wide at the east front door of the Court-house in the city of St. Louis, on between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and three o'clock p. m. of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash. for the purposes of said trust.

EDWARD S. ROWSE, Trustee.

February 28, 1883. 34W

BEFORE James Meegan, Justice of the Peace First District City of St. Louis—John S. Smith and Elizabeth Smith, plaintiffs, vs. Isaac McDonald and Gertrude McDonald.—Now on this 17th day of February, 1883, come the plaintiffs, and the summons being returned "defendant not found" as to Isaac McDonald, one of the defendants, and it being proved to the satisfaction of the Justice that the said Isaac McDonald is not a resident of the city of St. Louis, it is ordered by the Justice that publication be made notifying him that an action has been commenced against him in the nature of a boarding-house lien for seventy-five dollars for board of Gertrude McDonald and child from October 7, 1882, to January 7, 1883, at $25 per month, and that a lien is claimed upon the baggage brought into plaintiff's house on west side of Main street between Nagle avenue and Robert avenue, in South St. Louis; which baggage consists of one trunk and contents, unknown, and which trunk still remains at said house. And the further hearing of this cause is set for the 13th day of March. 1883, at the hour of one o'clock p. m., at my office in the First District. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper published in the city of St. Louis, for three successive days, the last insertion to be at least ten days from the day set for the further hearing aforesaid.

JAMES MEEGAN,
Justice of the Peace, First District City of St. Louis.

ASSIGNEE'S NOTICE.—Ntoice is hereby given to all creditors of and others interested in the estate of M. Eisenstadt & Co. that the undersigned, assignee of M. Eisenstadt & Co., will, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 16, 17 and 18, 1883, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. on each of said days, at the office of Douglas & Scudder, attorneys at law, No. 417 Olive street, city of St. Louis, Missouri, proceed publicly to adjust and allow demands against the estate of said M. Eisenstadt & Co. in accordance with the laws of Missouri concerning voluntary assignments.

Sheriff's Sales.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—By virtue and authority of an execution issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the city of St. Louis, returnable to the April term, 1883, of said court, and to me directed, in favor of William C. Jones and against the Windsor Hotel Company,

I have levied upon and seized all the right, title and interest of the defendant in and to the following described leasehold estate and the buildings thereon, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, and described as follows, to-wit:

Being block eight hundred and thirty-four (834) of said city, beginning at a point in the southern line of Washington avenue distant eastwardly from the east line of Fourteenth street eighty (80) feet, thence southwardly on a straight line about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to a point in the northern line of St. Charles street distant eastwardly eighty (80) feet from the east line of Fourteenth (14th) street, thence eastwardly along the said northern line of St. Charles street one hundred and one feet six inches (101 ft. 6 in.) to a point distant eastwardly from said east line of Fourteenth street 181 feet 6 inches, thence northwardly on a straight line about one hundred and fifty (150) feet to a point in the said southern line of Washington avenue distant eastwardly 181 feet 6 inches from said east line of 14th street, and thence west along said southern line of Washington avenue one hundred and one feet 8 inches to the place of beginning, and being the same property conveyed by Charles H. Peck and wife to Joseph H. Livingston by deed dated 28th October, 1881, and recorded in book 663, page 314.

And I will, on

MONDAY, THE 26TH DAY OF MARCH, 1883,

between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, sell at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest, claim and property of the above named The Windsor Hotel Company of, in and to the above described leasehold estate and the buildings therein, to satisfy said execution and costs.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting, perhaps, from a trifling and unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proved its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER."

Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."

Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

CURE YOURSELF.

Bohannan's "Vegetable Curative" cures all Nervous Diseases, Mental and Physical Weakness, General Debility, Kidney Complaints, Organic Weakness, or any of the train of evils arising from Indiscretions, Over Brain Work, OR ANY OTHER CAUSE, which often terminate in Consumption or Insanity. Many men, from the effects of Youthful Imprudence, have brought about a state of weakness that has reduced the general system so much as to induce symptoms of nearly every other disease, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever being suspected they are doctored for everything but the right one. Notwithstanding the many valuable remedies that medical science has produced for the relief of this class of patients, none of the ordinary modes of treatment effect a cure as promptly as BOHANNAN'S VEGETABLE CURATIVE. It has been used by old Dr. Bohannan in his private practice for over thirty years, has never failed in curing even the Worst Cases. The patient gains strength and elasticity of spirits at once, as it acts directly on the parts affected as a soothing and healing tonic and anodyne, imparting power and tone and restoring them to their natural state, the same as if never affected. The ingredients are simple productions of nature—barks, roots, herbs, etc., and are a specific for the above diseases. Permanently curing most cases in from two to seven weeks time.

Price Five Dollars sent to any address. For sale only at Bohannan's Drug Store, No. 621 North Fifth Street, corner of Christy avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

A Treatise fully describing the above sent FREE.

PILES CURED. "Bohannan's Pile Ointment," cures the worst cases of Piles, no matter what form or how long standing, in from 2 to 5 days. Price, One Dollar per box. Prepared by BOHANNAN & CO., Druggists, s. w. Cor. Fifth and Christy ave.

Items of Interest from Local and Other Sources—Notes.

H. W. Gays, G. F. A. of the I. & St. L., returned this morning from a two weeks' absence in New York.

The delegation from St. Louis to the meeting of general baggagemen, at New York City, returned last night.

Col. Robert Andrews, general superintendent of the Wabash, left for the West this morning in his private car "Delaware."

C. B. Kinnan, assistant general passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific, leaves to-night for an extended tour of all the Eastern States, North and South.

H. L. Dennis, chief clerk of the Missouri Pacific general passenger office, has just returned from the meeting of the rate men of the Southwestern Association, held in Chicago.

The chief engineer of the T. & St. L. Ry. telegraphs from the Red River this morning that the track-layers will reach the trestle approach to the Red River bridge by to-night and reach the bridge in a few days. Also that the company has just struck an eight-foot vein of coal at Red Land, Ark., that is thought will prove an excellent locomotive fuel.

The Missouri Pacific managers have employed an expert sketcher, Wm. H Bromley, whose business it is to take sketches of the most attractive places along the line and incorporate them in descriptions of the surrounding country. Mr. Bromley is now along the line of the Mexican National, in old Mexico, preparing a series of of cuts for the new advertisements of the Missouri Pacific system.

W. C. Brown, master of transportation, and Mr. Forsyth, master mechanic of the C., B. & Q.; J. M. Thacker, with the C., M. & St. P.; Mr. Frawley, traveling agent of the Wabash, at Chicago; F.L. Nevins, car agent of the N. Y., L. E. & W.; W. J. Young, commercial agent of the Illinois Central, at Chicago; W. L. Coyle, superintendent telegraph and W. A. Thoms, superintendent of the Missouri and Arkansas divisions of the 'Frisco and M. L. Sargeant G. F. A. of the K. C., Ft. S. & G. R. R., are the visiting railroaders in the city to-day.

W. D. Sanborn, division freight and passenger agent of the C., B. & Q., returned this morning from a trip over his line, and reports that the road is now in good shape all over the line. The system, though, experienced much inconvenience from high water. Between Peoria and Elmwood, Ill., a distance of twenty-seven miles, the road lost six bridges, but all are up again and the lines are all open. Local trains between Rock Island and Bushnell and Beardstown and St. Louis are talked of again, and will be put on again about April 1.

Coroner's Cases.

This morning the body of an unknown white infant was fonnd on a vacant lot on the west side of Eighth street, between Franklin avenue and Morgan street, and taken to the Morgue. On making an examination of the little body Superintendent Ryan discovered marks and a discoloration about the neck that would indicate death from strangulation. An inquest will be held to-morrow when the matter will be diligently inquired into by Coroner Nidelet. It probably is a case of infanticide.

This morning the body of a man named Kenna, who died at No. 817 North Seventh street, was conveyed to the Morgue.

The Marriage Record.

SOLITUDE.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone,
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.
Sing, and the hills will answer;
Sigh, it is lost on the air.
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
But shrink from voicing care.

Rejoice, and men will seek you;
Grieve, and they turn and go.
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
But they do not heed your woe.
Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad, and you lose them all.
There are none to decline your nectared wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by.
Succeed and give, and it helps you live,
But no man can help you die.
There is room in the halls of pleasure
For a large and lordly train,
But one by one we must all file on
Through the narrow aisles of pain.

ELLA WHEELER.

THE HAND OF FATE.

MARY KYLE DALLAS.

When I was still going to school, in the graduating class, to be sure, and past sixteen, and very large for my age, four of us made up our minds, on Saturday afternoon, to have our fortunes told.

There was a gypsy camp out on the common beyond the town, with vans, tents, cauldrons and the whole paraphernalia of gypsy life, and everybody walked or rode out to visit it. We decided to walk, and as it was a bright, cool day, enjoyed ourselves much better than if we had been cooped up in the stage, or even in a carriage.

It was October. Some of the foliage had changed color a little, and there were red and golden tints amongst the greens. Now and then the wind shook the trees and scattered showers of leaves upon the road. Purple asters and golden rod were still in bloom. Here and there grew crimson squaw berries, and bitter-sweet burnt like gold along the stone fences. Each of us gathered a great bunch, and we held them in our hands as we entered the path that led into the hollow where the camp lay. Young and romantic, we were ready to be delighted with everything—with the swarthy gypsy selling a colt to a stout farmer; with old grandmother dandling a dusky baby on her knees, and the dirty, black-eyed children squatting about everywhere.

There were visitors in plenty, and most of the women were busy telling fortunes. As we approached, a woman who had been sitting on a fallen log, arose, and a man who had been talking to her, pulled his hat over his eyes and turned away, like the villain in a melodrama. The woman wore a wide-brimmed straw hat, with a wreath of artificial flowers around it. Her hair was dressed stiffly and primly in well-oiled "bands." She had a flowered delaine gown and a little red woolen shawl covered her shoulders. She was certainly neither young nor beautiful, as the "gypsy maid" of song and drama must inevitably be; but she smiled amiably upon us, and, calling us "pretty young ladies," asked if we would have our fortunes told.

Clare, our spokeswoman, declared that to have been our intention in coming, and we soon proved the truth of the adage, "A fool and his money is soon parted," by dropping each a dollar into the gypsy's palm.

"Who shall I begin with, pretty ladies?" asked the woman. "And will you have your fortunes told private or together?"

Clare answered that we had no secrets from each other and that "this young lady," indicating Belle with the point of her parasols, "would be the first to have a glimpse into futurity."

Belle, blushing rosy red, put out her little hand, and we all listened while the gypsy told her that some one with a title, a Lord or a Duke, would cross the sea to fall in love with her; that she would live in a palace beyond the ocean and be waited on like a Queen. There was more, but I have forgotten it. Belle was delighted, and Rose was the next victim.

The gypsy told her that she would marry a great musician, and we all laughed, for we knew that Mr. Martelli, who taught the piano to the graduating class, was very much in love with her.

Then Clare seated herself on the old log and opened her hand, palm upward. It was large and handsome. Clare was something like Lady Jane, "not pretty but massive." The gypsy told her that she would be a soldier's wife.

Oddly enough it really happened not a year afterwards. We were all at the wedding. The next day Col. V—— rode out of the town at the head of his regiment. He never came back. Clare wears her widow's veil for him yet, and his miniature lies over her heart day and night forever.

But where have I strayed to? Let me go back to the bright autumn day, and the gypsy camp, and the four scohol girls, half-mocking, half believing, very merry and a little frightened. It was my turn, and I sat before the dark, hard-eyed woman, with a face like a smiling ogress carved in black walnut, and listened as she peered at the lines in my palm.

"You are a tall young lady, Miss," she said, at last; "but you go to school yet. You are fond of music, and you have an elderly gentleman relation who takes you out a good bit to places of amusement and the like. I don't see whether it's a relation."

This was so true that I came nearly crying out, "It is Uncle Henry," but I bethought myself in time.

"You wear blue a good deal," she went on, "and you have a blue fan. At a concert one evening you dropped it. The gentleman who picked it up is to be your husband. The stars say so."

"How white you turn, Essie," cried Clare.

"I feel faint," I said. "It's true I dropped a blue fan at the opera when Patti sang Traviata, and a gentleman picked it up, but I should not know him from Adam."

"You'll meet him again, however, Miss," said the gypsy. "Some Sunday at church he will hand you a prayer-book with the place marked with a flower; when you see that you will know your fate has come. His first name is Robin. He has black eyes, black hair and a dimple in his chin deep enough to put your finger in; and he wears a mustache."

I certainly had enough for my dollar. We all walked home together rather seriously, but in a day or two the impression passed away, and we almost forgot how strong it had been.

The rest of October was very unpleasant. We had prayers in the school-room instead of going to church. But on the first Sunday in November the sky was blue and the air clear, and we all set forth for church together.

It so happened that there were four new scholars, and the seats belonging to the school were full; four of us were left over to claim the courtesy of our neighbors. I was invited to enter a pew occupied by one old lady, and as my prayer book was in the school rack I had none and did not like to help myself without invitation. As I hesitated a book was passed to me from the pew behind me.

"This is the place," said a charming voice, and as I bowed my thanks I saw that the page was marked with a pressed daisy.

Instantly the visit to the gypsy camp and the fortune teller's prophecy rushed into my memory. I could not have helped looking at the pew behind if my life had depended on it. I actually turned my head and looked full at the gentleman who had given me the book.

He had black hair and eyes, a long mustache, and a dimple on his chin that you could put your finger in.

The congregation was rising; I arose, too. I held the book in my hand and softly turned to the fly-leaf before the title page. A name was written there—Robin Armytage.

Who can blame me if I said to myself: "Certainly I have met my fate at last."

It is vulgar to "flirt"—wrong to make acquaintance without introduction, but it was all Robin's fault. When he held his umbrella over me one rainy day; when he met me as I went shopping for Berlin wool for my afghan, and walked with me and talked; when old Billberry, who made the fires for the school, came upon me in the garden one morning, and pointing to a gentleman, where he had no business to be, looking over the fence, said: "Look here, Miss. This here is Mr. Robin Armytage. Proud to make you knowed to each other"—who could go against fate? And so I had the impudence to introduce him to uncle in the holidays, and in three months we were engaged. I graduated, left school, and soon after married Robin, and was as happy as a bird, or a butterfly, or a squirrel.

I had told Robin about the gypsy, of course, and he had agreed with me that it was all very wonderful so often; and at last, one bright spring evening, as we walked together, I spoke again of the strange prophesy, and particularly of the fact that the gypsy had known his name, and I was growing a little excited over it all, when Robin put his arm about my waist and drew me close to him.

"My darling," he said, "I can't deceive you any longer. There was no prophesy about it whatever. I had been in love with you for weeks—had watched you everywhere, and followed you to the camp. I paid the gypsy five dollars to say just what I told her, and gave the old sexton two to get me into the pew behind you. Of course, I also bribed Billberry. All is fair in love as in war. You forgive me, don't you?"

For a little while I wouldn't, but at last I gave in. One must, you know.

"I thought it was the hand of fate that guided me," I said, "or I'd never have spoken to you or let Bilberry introduce you, or deceived uncle."

"It was all very wrong, I know," Robin answered. "It would have been very shocking if it had been some other fellow, but you see it was I."

Yes, it was he. That seemed to make all the difference.

"O Robin, the hand of fate was in it, I believe, after all."

THE only pain we can safely make light of is the window-pane, but the pain that racks our frame and tears our lungs is a matter of serious consequence. To alleviate the latter and effect a permanent cure, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is relied on by all sensible people.

Fannie Driscoll's Death.

Chicago Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

One of the most painful instances touching literary and journalistic circles which have occurred hereabouts for some time was the death, at her father's residence, in Milwaukee, yesterday, of the beautiful and gifted wife of Henry Ten Eyck White, of the Chicago Tribune. The circumstance of their acquaintance, courtship, marriage and brief honeymoon, interrupted as it has been by death, are full of romantic interest. Mr. White is a son of Maj.-Gen. Julius White, of this city, who resides at Evanston, Ill. His early career was one of opposition to the established desire on the part of the parents for the education of their children. His great love for horses and the society of turfmen gave him a wonderful fund of information in this direction, and when he finally assumed the profession of journalism his services were found to be of exceptional value in this direction, and he received the position through his warm friend, the late Samuel J. Medill, of editor of the turf department of the Chicago Tribune. This he retained until about two years ago, when he began the department in that paper which has become noted throughout the United States and England under the caption of "Lakeside Musings." His keen satires and caricatures upon society and people were the natural outgrowth of his cynical nature, which, among his fellows, frequently amounted to an unbearable brusqueness, though unintentional and unpremeditated on his part. He delighted especially in serving up the multitude of poetesses who called to deposit their offerings with the Tribune editors. Among these was one young lady of rare gifts and presence—Miss Fanny Driscoll, of Milwaukee. Some of her writings are remembered as having been among the sweetest and tenderest in our language. The story goes that from repeated satires on this little lady he grew to know her and in time to love her ardently. Their engagement was soon announced, and only two months since their marriage occurred. It is stated by Mr. White's immediate friends that he simply idolized his wife; that his entire disposition and nature were apparently changed by the union, and that in place of his seemingly brusque, curt and even savage demeanor his disposition, motive and manner grew into a new mold of kindliness and amiability. The blow has been a terrible one to Mr. White, as well as the friends of his wife, and the keenest and deepest sympathy is extended from all.

IN a letter from Hon. Mrs. Perry, Castle Grey, Limerick, Ireland, Brown's Bronchial Troches are thus referred to:—"Having brought your 'Bronchial Troches' with me when I came to reside here, I found that after I had given them away to those I considered reqired them, the poor people will walk for miles to get a few." For Coughs, Colds and Throat Sores they have no equal. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cents.

Strange Story of Jewell's Death.

From the Hartford (Conn.) Times, Feb. 22.

On Friday morning before his death Mr. Jewell awoke from a sound sleep and inquired what was the matter at the residence of the Hon. William E. Dodge (his daughter's father-in-law, the famous New York merchant). Mr. Jewell's family had just received a telegram announcing the sudden and unlooked for death of Mr. Dodge; but it was not deemed best to let him know that any such thing had happened, and he was therefore told that all was well in Mr. Dodge's family. He said no, that it could not possibly be; something serious had happened; the family were in great trouble, if not actually in affliction; he knew it, in a way which, if not explicable, was, nevertheless, as clear and certain as he saw it. Insisting upon this, and refusing to accept his family's denials, he at length induced them to telegraph to New York, to see what was the matter. But Mrs. Jewell so worded the telegram as to instruct those who received it to answer that everything was all right. When that answer came they told it to Mr. Jewell, who refused to believe it, and at last asked them to let him see the message itself. This request being granted, and having the ocular proof before his eyes in the shape of an unmistakable Western Union telegraph message, he dubiously remarked: "Well, it does seem to be so; but it is very strange; I know there is something the matter—that something serious has happened in Mr. Dodge's house in New York." And that impression he retained until, so soon afterward, he, too, ended his earthly life. He survived Mr. Dodge only about 38 hours. His feeling that "something serious had happened" was apparently as clear and strong as it would have been had he personally witnessed the death of his relative.

Cupid's Own Scarecrows.

From the Alexandria Gazette.

A bridal couple from Prince William county, aged fifty and sixty, arrived on the local train in this city on Thursday afternoon from Washington and stopped at an up-town hotel. The bride's hat was of the latest design, a large, black sun-down, with a narrow band of purple ribbon around it, with a white pigeon wing fastened with two red rosebuds and a black lace bow. The veil was of blue tissue. The dress was of the shade of terra cotta. Her shawl was of different shades. Her neck was adorned with a red polka-dot handkerchief, fastened with a red bow, and a pair of white cotton gloves covered her slender hands. Her shoes were low-quartered Jeffersons. The groom was attired in black broadcloth, white vest, white tie, yellow buckskin gloves and linen duster. In one hand he carried a green umbrella, and in the other an oilcloth satchel, which held his bridal lunch.

Grant's Gloomiest Day.

Washington Cor. of the Boston Traveller.

Gen. Grant, in a recent conversation, said: "The darkest day of my life was the day I heard of Lincoln's assassination. I did not know what it meant. Here was the rebellion put down in the field and starting up again in the gutters. We had fought it as a war, now we had to fight it as assassination. Lincoln was killed on the evening of the 14th of April. I was busy sending out orders to stop recruiting, the purchase of supplies, and to muster out the army. Lincoln had promised to go to the theater, and wanted me to go with him. While I was with the President a note came from Mrs. Grant, saying that she must leave Washington that night. She wanted to go to Burlington to see her children. Some incident of a trifling nature had made her resolve to leave that evening. I was glad to have it so, as I did not want to go to the theater. So I made my excuses to Lincoln, and at the proper hour we started for the train. As we were driving along Pennsylvania avenue, a horseman drove past us on a gallop, and back again around our carriage looking into it. Mrs. Grant said: 'There is the man who sat near us at lunch to-day, with some other men, and tried to overhear our conversation. He was so rude that we left the dining-room. Here he is now riding after us.' I thought it was only curiosity, but learned afterward that the horseman was Booth. It seemed that I was to have been attacked, and Mrs. Grant's sudden resolve to leave changed the plan. A few days after I received an anonymous letter from a man saying that he had been detailed to kill me, that he rode on my train as far as Havre de Grace, and as my car was locked he failed to get in. He thanked God that he had failed. I remember that the conductor locked our car, but how true the letter was I cannot say. I learned of the assassination as I was passing through Philadelphia. I turned around, took a special train, and came on to Washington. It was the gloomiest day of my life."

One Picture of Life in a City.

From the Cleveland Leader.

This morning Captain Kerr noticed a young and pretty girl walking to and fro on the north side of the viaduct, apparently in deep thought. "I thought that perhaps she was waiting for her lover," said Kerr afterward, "and paid little attention to her. About an hour after I first noticed her," Kerr continued, "I was sweeping off the draw. There were very few people on the bridge at the time. Suddenly, as if by inspiration, I turned around and the sight that met my gaze froze the blood in my veins. There was that girl standing on the narrow projecting edge outside the railing on the north side of the draw-bridge, eighty feet above the river. She was holding on the railing with one hand looking down into the river below, preparing for a leap to death. I sprang forward and seized her. She struggled, vigorously to free herself from my grasp. I clutched her with an almost death-like grip and thus managed to save her."

An Indian Wins a $40,000 Suit.

From the Ishpeming Iron Agitator.

The daughther of an Indian has just recovered about $40,000 from the Jackson Iron Company. A number of explorers were looking for iron about thirty-five or forty years ago near where Negaunee now stands, and an old Indian, Margi Geezic by name, took them to a place where he had found some very fine ore. They found that the deposit was large and a co-partnership to work the mine thus discovered was formed. In consideration of the service rendered them by the Indian it was agreed that he should receive 12-3100 of the profits, and a written agreement to that effect was given him. At last he died and the suit which has just been decided was brought for his daughter to recover the money claimed to be due her father from the company.

The Municipal Assembly.

In the Council last night, the Belt Railway Company's bill was read a third time and passed. The bill reported providing for ward registration once in four years was laid over. Remonstrances against street railroad companies construction were presented and referred to the committee. Several bills for street reconstruction were passed, likewise the bills relative to letting in one contract the street work and keeping the streets in repair for ten years.

In the House of Delegates the opium-den ordinance was read and passed. The street reconstruction bills, relative to the asphalt experiment, were laid over for the Board of Public Improvements to draft a clause making the contractors responsible for keeping the streets in repair for ten years, or otherwise to guarantee the work. If the plan is feasible it will be adopted. The bill increasing the salary of Commodore Smith, the Mayor's secretary, to $2,500 per annum was ordered to engrossment. Mr. Dunn entered his objection. The pool-sellers' license bill amendment was adopted; $1,000 for six months and $2,000 per annum. The bill for increase of salaries was passed as follows: Collector of water rates $3,000 per annum; cashier, $1,500; clerks and inspectors, $83 50. The minority report on this measure was lost. Mr. Davis introduced a bill for placing the foundation of the Blair monument in Forest Park to cost $650. The Missouri Railroad Company's bill for extension of the Olive Street Line to Forest Park after some discussion was made a special order for next Friday.

The Henry Shaw Society in Oratorio.

The first public effort of the Henry Shaw Musical Society, organized last fall, and under the direction of Prof. R. S. Poppen, was made last night at Mercantile Library Hall, when a large and cultured audience assembled to listen to the oratorio of "St. Paul." Mr. Henry Shaw, after whom the organization was named and to whom the grand opening march was dedicated, was present with a party of friends, and was escorted to a front seat by a committee at the head of which was Dabney Carr. The performance was a grand success. There were over 100 choristers on the stage and an ample orchestra rendered the instrumental features in a satisfactory manner. The soloists were D. F. Ellwanger, basso; Jos. Saler, baritone; Ernest Kersker and B. Dierks, tenors; Miss Lulu Ringen, alto, and Mrs. A. Riesmeyer, soprano. The choral parts were magnificently given, notably "Rise Up, Arise," "Oh Great is the Depths," and "The Nations Are Now the Lord's." Mrs. Riesmeyer sang sweetly and effectively; Miss Ringen's numbers were charmingly rendered, and indeed all the soloists acquitted themselves with the utmost credit. Mr. J. P. Grant presided at the organ. There was nothing but praise for the manner in which the oratorio was presented.

TEACHERS' HOBBIES.

The Crank Ideas that Pervade the Public School System.

German as a Compulsory Branch, and the Ridiculous Manner in Which It is Taught.

The desire to perfect the children of the Public Schools in language is not confined to training their little tongues to the most elegantly polished and heavily burdened expressions that English is capable of. In every class, for at least twenty minutes each day, there is a German lesson, which long and short, tall and lean, poor and rich, dull and bright, are compelled to take. This lesson is imperative, and it dominates over all the others. Every English branch must bow to it, and every English teacher must bend the knee and servilely make way for the Teutonic instructress, at whatever time that lady may find it convenient to take possession of a room. It is stating the truth mildly to say that the English teachers are down on the German. Even Superintendent Long doesn't seem to care wheter German is retained in the curriculum or not. Nobody appears to favor it, except the German teachers, who find that it secures them employment in the schools, not only for teaching the German language, with which they have reason to be somewhat familiar, but also for giving instruction in English branches, to which a great many of them are still comparative strangers.

THE STUDY OF GERMAN

is as firmly established in the public schools as the Roman Catholic Church claims to be on the Rock of Peter. It is given a place in the course of study because it is somebody's particular hobby, and if the school system is consistent in anything it is in being composed of a variety of hobbies. There is the Long hobby, which, in effect, requires a seven-year-old child to be as correct grammatically, logically, technically and otherwise, as a Harvard graduate writing an article for the Century Magazine, or a French cyclopedist compiling a history of the numerous efforts made by scientists to discover the true parallax of the sun. Then there is the Foster hobby in arithmetic, a new system that is, in the writer's opinion, good, but because novel and for the time being difficult to the teachers, scarcely sufficiently practicable to warrant its substitution for the old system, that was every bit as reliable and certainly not in any way inferior to the Foster idea. Then, too, there is the Locke hobby in drawing, which is an immensely beautiful and charmingly comprehensive ambition on the part of Miss Locke, who represents some Eastern publishing house, to make it the beginning, end and middle-ground of the public school child's existence to be familiar with, adept in, and technically on intimate neighborly terms with the Smith system of drawing. Smith supplanted Diehl in the schools a year ago and effected a complete upheaval of the old methods of drawing. Diehl had some elaborate scheme for rapidly developing the art instinct in public school children, and Smith had an equally vague but quite as elaborate and about ten times as distressing a method of doing the same thing, the distressing element growing in proportion to quantity and quality of technicalities that are unloaded into the infant intellect by some skillful juggling peculiar to school boards and that know next to nothing about the branches of learning for which they are supposed to select the text-books—a duty which they often with commendable modesty relegate to the agents of publishing houses. The change that Smith so much desired and that Diehl so strongly but vainly objected to, brought Miss Locke to the surface and she has since been supervising the work of the drawing classes by day and helping lame teachers out at night, so that the hobby might flourish and the race of artists and other wonderful people might multiply rapidly and cause the business of the Smith establishment, wherever it is, to grow and extend with the widening and unfolding of the generations. There are other minor hobbies engendered and fostered at the expense of the children by individual teachers, and from morning until night the young and plastic intellect is being chased up the by-ways and blind-alleys of learning, now by the man who has a new kind of patent phonetic primer that can be reversed and used for a grammar, or by putting an extra buttonhole through it somewhere may be turned around and made to do duty as a dictionary; and again, by the individual, who has discovered a new style of holding slate pencils or sharpening crayons and wants a Spencerian flourish made only when the child is balancing the penholder along the edge of the nail of the middle finger and the end of the instrument is pointing in the direction of the Polar Star while the holder itself must cross the meridian at something like 8 deg. 20 min. N. N. E.

In the midst of this delightful hodge-podge of hobbies German rises as lustrous and beautiful as any. As has already been said it is given one of the most prominent places in the course of study, and is altogether the pet branch of the School Board. It is true there is a very general demand that the language should be taught in the schools, and it is probably in recognition of this demand that German is taught; but the argument is made that for children to acquire a knowledge of German in the schools, but they are no more entitled to it than they are to Latin or Irish or French. Nationality as well as sectarianism should be sunk out of sight in a system of education that means to be catholic, and the opponents of German claim, possibly with great show of justice, that the schools should not be the means of fostering a single foreign tongue to the utter exclusion of all others. The statement that German cannot be acquired in the public schools has never received a flat and full denial. The challenge is still open to bring forward a boy or girl who has learned the language in this manner. Supt. Long says he knows nothing about the German department and has no desire to appear as its defender. The German superintendent has not been seen, but German teachers themselves say they do not see that any great good is accomplished by giving these lessons. How are they given? An explanation of this alone will show how farcical the whole thing is and upon what a thoroughly unpractical basis the present course of study of the public schools rests.

Take any school in the city and enter a first or second grade class just before the German teacher arrives. The little ones are probably in the last throes of a nice little lesson in natural science and have been stowing away enough botanical knowledge to make them competent to take charge of one of the city parks, or all of them for that matter, for, like the public school teacher's, the public school child's ideas are expansive and both generally go the whole hog in matters of learning. Presently the door of the room opens, and lo! the German teacher enters. She comes like a St. Patrick's Day procession, with her banner waving before her. The green hues pervading suggests the Hibernian figure of speech. The banner is a chart or picture card mounted on a long pole, and the subject wrought out in extraordinary color-work is usually a Hesse-Darmstadt landscape or the interior of a grotesque-looking industrial establishment at Frankfort-on-the-Maine. The drawing and general execution of the illustrations are of a kind calculated to make Miss Locke and the other esthetic attaches of the school perfectly sick, while the preponderance of green and other primary colors adds to the artistic vileness of the pictures, and has the effect of turning the average child forever from the paths of painting. Such things as the old-time hand press used for printing a century ago, the spinning wheel, the turn-spit, and household and industrial articles that have passed out of date long ago, are made the subjects of illustration in these charts. The teacher holds one of the cards, something like 24x36 inches in size, in one hand, and pointing to a vermillion-haired blacksmith in green breeches, yellow vest, red shirt collar and blue finger-nails, with a green sledge hammer raised aloft to descend upon a yellow ploughshare on a red anvil, asks the children, "Was ist das?" when they all cry out in chorus, "Das ist ein Mann." "Was ist er?" the teacher next inquires, and after a proper pause the musical cadence of the children's reply comes floating up against the comical chart, "Er ist ein Schmied." And so on. The public school edition of Puck cartoons is awarded so much prominence in this branch of study that the child accumulates a mean opinion of Meissonier and Lekoczy and the other advanced painters by the time it has gone through a year's course, and ere it is ready to tackle the German which is given it in the third grade has such an utter abhorrence of genre, landscape and other phases of the pictorial art that the sight of slate-colored one-story houses with bright green shutters and brick-red trimmings is refreshing to its eyes.

THE SYSTEM

of object-teaching upon which the schools pride themselves accustoms the child to familiarity with the form of things and the style of teaching German from Heidelberg chromos or Bavarian beer-signs, as calculated to make them acquainted with objects and articles mediæval in design and pre-Christian in the matter of usefulness. The employment of the charts continues two years, during which time there is no English spoken by the German teachers, often a fortunate thing for the children, and the little German the youngsters learn is associated with matters so dead and gone that they are scarcely ever recalled in a complimentary way nowadays.

The difficulties surrounding the study of German in the lower grades is not overcome in the advanced classes. Their text books are placed in the hands of the children, and from that time on, as is the case with all studies, for which text books are used, t is a case of go-as-you-please with the branch. A few keep at the front and manage to excite some interest in the study, but the great army of pupils are forty or fifty laps behind, and have no earthly hope of staying the race out to the end of the match.

The Judge Invokes the Poetic Muse.

A maiden fair,
With banged-up hair,
Sat on a door-step.
A youth came by,
Glanced on the sly,
The maiden blushed, you bet!

Why did she blush?
What made her rush
So very quick inside?
She was afraid,
This dainty maid,
A "masher" she had spied.

But 'twas not so,
She only saw
A youth decked out so gay,
He had read the tale
Of the Famous sale
In the morning press of that day.

So he hied him forth,
With his cash in hand,
To purchase an all-wool suit,
And he looked so neat,
As he walked the street,
That this maiden fair,
With the banged-up hair,
Came back to the door,
For she wanted once more
To gaze on this handsome youth.

☞It will be observed that in the last verse "suit" is made to rhyme with "youth;" but due allowance must be made for the "Judge," who sat up quite late the night before receiving

A Girl Ends Her Journey in the Workhouse—The Police.

Two years ago a young man named Joe Chambers was arrested on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from a cobbler's show-window and committed to jail on a charge of burglary. His mother, who worked in an Olive street laundry, visited him every Sunday morning. During the week a pretty girl of about seventeen years called daily to bring her brother what delicacies their small means would allow. Chambers lay in jail for several months awaiting trial, but during all that time his faithful sister never missed a day, rain or shine. Her face was pretty and pleasing, her manner quiet, and her attentions to her brother unswerving. At the Jail she was given many small privileges that are withheld from the ordinary rough visitors. At the trial young Chambers was attended by his mother and sister and, on the evidence, was acquitted. A few months later the modest little girl was arraigned for appearing on the street in male attire with a masquerading party of bad repute. Later her face became a familiar one in the police court dock, and this morning, under the name of Lou Davis, she was sent to the Work-house, slatternly and dirty, on a charge of being a wandering outcast, frequenting saloons and beer-houses.

Leonard Aramati, an Italian fruit-vender, was arraigned in the First District Police Court this morning on a charge of violating a city ordinance prohibiting any one from allowing a vehicle to stand on the public street. In a weak, consumptive voice the Italian pleaded guilty to a charge of allowing his cart to stand on Fourth street, between Pine and Olive, and in mitigation made the following statement: "Your Honor, I have to walk all day. I start out early in the morning and have to walk all day. I eat a little lunch on the way and it's night before I get back home. Sometimes I get so tired I asked a man on Fourth street if I could stand on the street near his store when I was tired, and he told me I could always come there. When I was tired walking yesterday I stood in front of his store and the officers arrested me." The case was dismissed at the defendant's cost.

It never rains but it pours. Mary Hazelman, who went to the Work-house this afternoon, thinks so, at least. On last Saturday Mary was out on one of her sprees and was arrested and fined $20 by Judge Denison, but was given a stay on a promise of good behavior in future. When she was released she came down to the Central District and was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace, and was fined $10. As she was departing to take her place in the First Police Court dock she turned on Judge Jecke and opened a wordy fire on him. Two officers lead her to the hold-over, and to-day she was arraigned on a second charge. She asked the court to excuse her for the unladylike language she had used yesterday, but was fined $10 and this afternoon went down to the Work-house for a two months' stay.

"CHARTER OAK A B C" is a very handsome book just issued by the manufacturers of the "Charter Oak" stoves, and it is after the style of nursery books, giving a rhyme for each letter of the alphabet, singing the praises of the "Charter Oak" stoves. It also contains some valuable cooking recipes. The cover is a very neatly executed piece of work, and is printed in bright colors. A copy will be mailed to any address on receipt of one three-cent stamp. Address the Excelsior Manufacturing Company, St. Louis.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis—ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
February Term, 1883.
Wednesday, February 7, 1883.
Catherine Scholl
vs.
Jacob Scholl.

It appearing from the affidavit this day filed herein that said defendant has absented himself from his usual place of abode and has concealed himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, on motion of plaintiff, by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that defendant has absented himself, without a reasonable cause, for the space of one whole year next before the filing of the petition herein, and during that time has failed to provide for the support and maintenance of plaintiff; and also for a decree of this court giving plaintiff the care and custody of the infant child of said parties, and restoring to her her maiden name.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 8th day of February, 1883.

Michael Kuberick
vs.
Barbara Kuberick.

It appearing from the petition and the affidavit to the petition heretofore filed herein that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, wherefore, on motion of plaintiff by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against her, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, on the grounds of desertion and adultery.

And unless she appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against her as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
February Term, 1883.
Friday, February 9, 1883.
Mary Clayton
vs.
Joseph Clayton.
No. 60,838.

It appearing from the petition of the plaintiff herein duly verified, and by affidavit, that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of the plaintiff, by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and said defendant, on the grounds that the defendant is impotent and physically deformed in such manner as to be unable to perform the duties of married life; and for beating, scolding and offering her such indignities as to make her condition in life intolerable; and, further, that the defendant informed plaintiff that he had a lawful wife in England living, from whom he had not been divorced.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

It appearing from the affidavit to plaintiff's petition that the defendants are not residents of the State of Missouri, it is therefore, on motion of the plaintiffs, by their attorney, Ordered that said defendants be notified that a civil action has been commenced against them, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree correcting an erroneous description of a lot of ground in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, conveyed by said defendants to the trustee of E. D. Plimpton on the 1st day of June, 1868, by deed of trust recorded in book 365, page 42, St. Louis city records, and to decide title of said defendants in said lot to the plaintiffs as the heirs and representatives of E. D. Plimpton, deceased, as purchaser under said deed of trust.

And unless they appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against them as confessed.

No. 13,465.

It appearing from the petition, duly verified by affidavit heretofore filed herein, that Playfair G. Ault and Edwin M. Ault, two of the children and heirs of Thaddeus M. Ault, deceased, who was an original party defendant in this cause, against whom an order of revival was made in this case at the October term, 1882, of this court, are not residents of the State of Missouri, on motion of plaintiffs, by attorney,

It is ordered that said Playfair G. Ault and Edwin M. Ault appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof show cause, if any they have, why this suit should not be revived and proceed against them as such heirs, the object and general nature of said suit being to annul the decree of the Circuit Court of Franklin Rounty, Missouri, rendered April 4, 1854, in the matter of the assignment of dower and partition of the following lands belonging to the estate of James Johnson, deceased, to-wit:

S. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼, and N. ½ of S. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ Sec. 12, Tp. 43, R. 2 east, situate in Franklin county, Missouri, and containing 60 acres.

Also the following lands situate in Franklin and St. Louis counties, Missouri, and within U. S. Survey No. 3064, confirmed to John Watkins or his legal representatives by act of Congress of July —, 1836, viz.: Fractional part of N. E. ¼ of N. W. ¼ Sec. 12, containing 4 35-100 acres; fr'l part of S. E. ¼ of S. W. ¼ Sec. 1, containing 5 16-100 acres; the S. ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis—ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
December Term, 1882.
Friday, December 29, 1882.
Emma Crawford
vs.
Augustus Crawford.

The plaintiff comes, by her attorney, and files a petition and affidavit, from which it appears that defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri; therefore, on motion of the plaintiff, by her attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that the said defendant has during said marriage offered such indignities to plaintiff as to render her condition intolerable, in that he has failed to provide the necessaries and comforts of life for plaintiff, and has been guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrants.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 29th day of December, 1882.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri City of St. Louis—ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
December Term, 1882.
Tuesday, January 2, 1883.
Theresa Scherer
vs.
Jacob Scherer.

It appearing from the affidavit to plaintiff's petition that the defendant is not a resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of the plaintiff, by her attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that the defendant has abandoned plaintiff and has absented himself from her without reasonable cause for the space of more than one year before the filing of said petition, and that whilst living with her defendant was guilty of such cruelty and barbarous treatment as to endanger the life of plaintiff by kicking and beating her, and for an order restoring her maiden name of Theresa Deppler.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis on the first Monday of April next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 4th day of January, 1883.
